Benson, Others Accused In Appropriations Report

Two Units Bear Brunt Of Assault

CCC Overlooks Its Role, Its View

Washington, March 25 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today accused the Agriculture Department of allowing political considerations to darken the future of American farmers.

It blistered the department's management in a report recommending $878,625,391 in cash and 388 million dollars in lending authority to finance the agency for the next fiscal year. This was a net cut of only $6,424,524 from budget requests.

THE REPORT by the committee bristled with criticism of Secretary Benson and "others about him."

The Commodity Credit Corp. and its parent organization, the Commodity Stabilization Service, bore the brunt of the committee's wrath. Benson is chairman of the board of directors of the CCC, which handles the government's farm price support program.

Noting a steady drop in farm income and a steady rise in farm costs in recent years, the committee said "the outlook is for still further declines in net farm income in 1955."

Since 1945, it said, the farmers' share of the consumers' food dollar has dropped from 54 to 43 per cent and "prospects are that this trend will continue."

IN THE SOUTH particularly, it added, the situation is "deplorable" because of government curtailment of cotton acreage.

The committee accused the CCC of having "largely overlooked its responsibility to protect the government's investment in food surpluses.

The CCC has invested more than seven billion dollars to support farm prices, the committee said, but up to February of this year nearly $3,700,000,000 worth of commodities had never been offered for sale abroad at competitive prices.

"There is reason to believe that such products could be sold in world markets through normal channels if an effort were made to do so on a competitive basis," the committee commented.

MANY COUNTRIES are ready and anxious to buy, the committee said, but do not because the CCC makes the American support price substantially the offering price in world markets.

The committee said the CCC has authority to sell in world trade "at such price as it might take to move these commodities."

It directed the CCC to get a

Housing Authority Will Seek Committee to Study Proposal

Mayor to Be Asked to Appoint Group To Study Redevelopment Downtown

The Kingston Housing Authority will ask Mayor Frederick H. Stang to appoint a citizens' committee to study a proposed urban redevelopment plan for downtown Kingston.

George E. Yerry, Jr., Housing Authority chairman, announced today that members of the Authority met Thursday and decided to recommend that a committee of representative citizens be named to look into the possibility of redeveloping a 10 or 12 block area downtown with the use of private capital with some federal assistance.

MAYOR STANG, although not yet officially notified of the Authority's action, said this morning he was contacted by telephone and expects to name a committee of "25 or so" persons to study the proposals in general.

The committee presumably would include a cross-section of Kingston residents, including business and professional men.

THE PLAN that is under discussion would in general involve the setting up of a coordinated plan for a definitely defined area and providing for attractive, substantial dwelling units, stores, service facilities and off-street parking. Actual development of individual blocks or groups of blocks in conformity with the over-all plan would be left to private capital, with a federal guarantee up to approximately 90 to 95 per cent on mortgages available through the Federal Housing Administration's Housing and Home Finance Agency.

The area would center about the blocks to be cleared by the Kingston Housing Authority as a part of its obligation in connection with the erection of the Colonial Gardens public housing.

AFTER STUDY by the citizens' committee, the plan may—if the committee decides to do so—be placed before the Common Council as a recommendation.

Yerry also announced that he expects to discuss various aspects of the redevelopment plan with officials of the New York State Division of Housing in New York city next week. A representative of that division, as well as other persons interested in the project, may be present at the first meeting of the citizen's committee, which will probably be held about April 5.

Committee Votes To Kill $20 Cut

Washington, March 25 (AP)—A Senate-House conference committee today voted to kill a Democratic proposal for a $20 a person income tax cut next year.

Democrats said they "reluctantly" yielded and accepted a Senate bill merely extending present corporation income and excise tax rates for one more year.

Sen. Millikin (R-Colo.) said the conference committee recommendation would go to the Senate floor this afternoon.

It is expected to reach the House floor next Tuesday.

The committee's decision is subject to approval by both Senate and House.

The House conceivably could refuse to accept it, but that appears unlikely.

Democrats had pushed through the House a plan to give each taxpayer and each dependent a $20 tax cut starting next Jan. 1. They tied this into an Eisenhower administration bill continuing corporation and excise taxes.

The Senate voted 61-32 to take the tax cut out of the bill.

Democrats said the face of that opposition, they were forced to yield on the issue to avoid a major loss in revenue from corporation and excise taxes.

Corporate and excise taxes are scheduled to drop on April 1 by three billion dollars annually unless the extension bill is enacted by that date.

THE CONFERENCE committee voted down a last-minute Democratic compromise proposal calling for a $10 per person income tax cut.

Meanwhile, House debate on another tax bill yesterday indicated tax policy may be blowing up as the hottest political issue of the year between Democrats and Republicans.

The bill, passed unanimously by voice vote and sent to the Senate, would repeal two business tax benefits included in last year's general overhaul of all tax laws.

The merits of repeal, however, were scarcely mentioned during two hours of argument by Republican and Democratic leaders over broader tax policy.

HOUSE MAJORITY Leader McCormack (D-Mass.) called the business benefits a "hidden windfall" of several billion dollars for corporations. He charged that Republicans generally favor "the select few" and discriminate against the "little" taxpayer.

That drew a retort from deputy GOP leader Halleck (R-Ind.), that Democrats are frantically dragging up a false issue to try to stave off defeat in the 1956 presidential and congressional elections.

The approved bill would repeal sections (1) giving some business firms a tax deduction for certain estimated future expenses; and (2) postponing tax payments on some income which involves future services.

Two Proposals Are Under Study

Newark, N. J., March 25 (AP)—The New Jersey State Public Utility Commission and the City of New York today studied two weighty proposals regarding the West Shore Division of the New York Central railroad:

1. Commuters from Bergen county, N. J. and Rockland county, N. Y. yesterday asked the PUC to dismiss the Central's petition to abandon passenger service on the division.

2. The Central at the same time offered to make a gift to New York of the ferries which are part of the West Shore division.

WILLIAM A. ROBERTS, an attorney representing communities served by the line, asked the PUC in a 36-page brief to approve "indefinite continuance" of service to 4,000 daily commuters.

The PUC said it would make a decision on the brief by April 4. The railroad has until March 30 to answer it.

The offer to New York was made in a letter from A. E. Perlman, president of the Central system, to Peter Campbell Brown, the city's corporation counsel. A speedy reply was requested.

NOTING THAT BROWN had filed a petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission to keep the Central from discontinuing the ferry service between Weehawken, N. J., and Manhattan, Perlman wrote:

"In the light of the city's interest in accommodating its citizens, the New York Central is happy to hereby advise you that it will give without charge to the city of New York all the ferries which our company now owns . . ."

The Central's ferry fleet consists of seven boats.

Perlman's offer included rental of the ferry house at Weehawken for $1 a year and all equipment used in maintaining the vessels.

ROBERT CONTENDED that the Central failed to establish its legal right to relief when it completed its case two weeks ago.

"There was positively no evidence as to why the railroad had selected the West Shore Division for abandonment treatment or as to why economies could not otherwise be effected which would permit the retention of this service," he said.

The railroad has claimed that it is losing three million dollars a year on the division, including the ferry service.

Roberts also contended that the Central did not prove that the residents of the "rapidly growing communities in New Jersey along its line" could be served adequately by other means of transportation.

Kerhonkson Boy Wins Course at Lafayette School

The fourth Ulster county student to receive an engineering scholarship from Elctrol Incorporated was officially notified of his good fortune on Thursday at the office of the firm on 85 Grand street.

He is Robert E. Probst, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Probst of Kerhonkson, a senior in the high school course at Kerhonkson Union Free School.

Probst said he intends to enroll at Lafayette University for four years of mechanical engineering.

"THIS IS THE happiest event of the year for me," he told President Ben N. Ashton of Electrol, when they met yesterday. Ashton said he and the officials of the firm were proud of the boy's record and accomplishments, and "we hope you'll be a successful engineer."

Electrol, interested in developing mechanical engineers, pays $700 annual tuition for four years for each scholarship winner.

Three other area youths now in school on Electrol scholarships are Robert J. Hecht of Highland at Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Vincent Vasile, Marlborough, at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, and William O. Gaudette, Ulster Park, also at RPI.

TOTAL TUITION fees for the four prospective engineers will cost Electrol $11,200.

Each year an alternate is chosen in case the winner does not accept the scholarship, and Palmer (Skip) Brodhead, Kingston High School star basketball player is the 1955 designee.

Winners are selected according to their school grades, ability, scholastic standing and participation in school activities, according to Strittar, the personnel manager at Electrol.

He advised that all high schools in Ulster county have application blanks, which students may inquire about and sign for scholarship consideration.

Yonkers Firm Low Bidder

Thalle Construction Co., of Yonkers bid low at $50,451.75 for improvement of grounds at the library building, State Teachers College, New Paltz, the state public works department announced today. Bids were received in Albany yesterday on 35 other projects. The total cost of all as represented in the bidding was $2,397,274.85.

Fireman, Child Fall

New York, March 25 (AP)—An heroic fireman and the three-year-old tot he was rescuing fell four stories to the ground today and were gravely hurt. A puff of smoke forced Fire Lt. John P. McFarland, 31, to lose his grip on a fire escape ladder as he climbed to the roof of a four-floor building in Brooklyn. Long Island Hospital said he suffered broken ribs and a fractured pelvis. The little girl, Joanne Fitzsimmons, was in critical condition, unconscious.

2,400 Attend Exposition

Approximately 2,400 persons attended the Lions Club sponsored "Kingston Area on Parade" industrial exposition and home show at the state armory on Thursday evening. The exposition continues tonight and Saturday night, with the doors open from 7 to 10:30 p. m. Tonight's special guest will be Miss Nancy Hutton of Hurley, Ulster county blue ribbon winner in 4-H cherry pie baking contest.

Veto Threat Hangs Over School Aid

Prediction Made Rejection Likely

Albany, March 25 (AP)—The threat of a veto hangs over a Republican bill to freeze state aid to education at present rates for another year.

A Democratic leader predicted yesterday that Gov. Harriman would reject the measure, which includes about half of the financial package he is demanding for New York city schools.

However, a spokesman in the governor's office said no one in the administration could say definitely whether Harriman planned to veto or sign the bill.

REPUBLICAN MAJORITIES jammed the bill through both Houses over solid Democratic opposition.

In a bitter debate over the measure, Eugene F. Brannigan, minority leader of the Assembly, declared: "Let's pass it without further argument and send it downstairs—because it's coming back up."

Bills vetoed are returned from the governor's office, on the second floor of the capitol, to the Legislature chambers on the third floor.

THE STRUGGLE over school aid came to a head again as the lawmakers sprinted through legislation in a drive to adjourn by April 5. The first Friday session of the year was called for today, although only non-controversial bills were on the calendars.

Another major item pushed along yesterday was a proposed Constitutional Amendment to legalize bingo. The Assembly approved the measure, completing legislative action for this year.

Before it can become law, the proposal must gain approval of the Legislature to be elected in 1956 and of the voters in a referendum. It could not take effect before 1958.

THE PROPOSED amendment would permit localities, at their option, to license bingo games sponsored by religious, charitable, veterans and other nonprofit groups. Fifteen Assembly Republicans and one Democrat voted "no."

In New York city, the State Congress of Industrial Organizations urged Harriman to summon a special session of the Legislature should it adjourn without acting on "priority issues."

The state CIO scheduled an "emergency" conference in Al-

Bill Would Give New Deduction

Albany, March 25 (AP)—The Senate voted yesterday to let parents deduct up to $300 in college or school tuitions from their state income tax returns, starting in 1957.

The bill, passed unanimously and sent to the Assembly, would cost the state about 2½ million dollars a year.

It would allow a taxpayer to deduct from his taxable income money paid to a school, college or university in tuition for himself, his spouse or a dependent child, up to a limit of $300 a year.

The deduction would be allowed on income tax payable in 1957 on 1956 incomes.

Two Units To Be Kept At Capitol

Justice Agency Is To Make Decision

New York, March 25 (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman said today he's going to keep the Legislature in session until it finished a program that will "count for the people of this state."

He said if the Legislature failed to act on the measures it should before Easter, members would go home for a brief recess, and then come back to go to work again.

"We're going to keep them there until we get the legislation done and the things that count for the people of this state," Harriman told a state meeting of the CIO Steel Workers of America.

Harriman also said that "the danger this year is that while production and consumption will rise, employment will lag."

"THE OBJECTIVE must be to use fully our available resources of plant and manpower to achieve a higher standard of living for everyone," he added.

In a speech prepared for the State Convention of the CIO United Steelworkers of America, he also said that "last year was an unsatisfactory year — measured in production, in employment and in consumption."

Harriman said: "The rapid increase in the productivity of American industry and American Labor . . . presents a major challenge to government, to management, and to labor to bring about the expansion of our economy at a rate fast enough to keep pace with our ability to produce."

Harriman gave figures on production increases and expanded work weeks and—nvertheless—decreases in the numbers of manufacturing production workers employed.

HARRIMAN SAID:

"There is almost no limit to the things we need. It is estimated we have an accumulated need of close to a million new houses in New York state alone. We need household appliances. We need highways and schools

Peress Case Is Given to U.S. Agency

Intends to Have Program to Count

Washington, March 25 (AP)—The Senate Investigations Subcommittee today wound up its new study of the Irving Peress case, voting to let the Justice Department decide whether perjury had been committed by any of the witnesses.

Chairman McClellan (D.-Ark.) announced the decision following a closed door meeting of subcommittee members. Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), a member, did not appear.

McClellan said the decision was still subject to a motion to reconsider from McCarthy and Sen. Mundt (R.-S. D.), the only other absent member. Mundt promptly said he had no present plan to make such a motion, but McCarthy was not reached immediately.

McCARTHY HAD indicated he might pursue his questions as to whether Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, a decorated combat veteran of World War 2, had perjured himself "10 or 12 times" in testimony.

McClellan announced the subcommittee also had voted to ask the Justice Department "to further pursue the Peress case" to

Final Rates Are Given by State

Final state equalization rates have been set for 18 of Ulster county's 20 townships, and tentative rates are fixed for two villages, an Albany announcement said today.

Of the 779 towns in the state with final rates only nine had higher than those set by the board last Nov. 11, and none of these was in Ulster county.

Tentative rates for the villages of New Paltz and Pine Hill are both lower. New Paltz goes from 52 to 30 and Pine Hill from 49 to 25.

THE TWO TOWNSHIPS for which final rates have not been fixed by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment are Olive and Wawarsing.

Changes in the nine towns in the state resulted from recomputations using additional or corrected information on property values and assessment rolls. Only 17 towns in the state, to date have received final rates different from their tentative rates.

Hearings on the village rates will be held in the state office building, Albany April 19 and 20 at 10 a. m., and 2 p. m.

Decreases in rates will make increased taxing and borrowing power available over the next five years.

Will Study Idea

Washington, March 25 (AP)—The possibility of developing atomic-powered railroad locomotives will be studied by two companies. The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) said yesterday it has approved a year-long study of the project by the Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp. of Philadelphia and the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad Co. The companies will pay the costs of the project. The AEC will supply advice and available technical information. An atomic engine of the kind under consideration, the AEC said, could be used for a number of purposes in addition to propelling trains.

Allen Is Named

Albany, March 25 (AP)—Dr. James E. Allen Jr. has been named commissioner of education for the state of New York to succeed Dr. Lewis A. Wilson. The post pays $20,000 a year. Allen joined the State Education Department in 1947 as executive assistant to the commissioner and became deputy commissioner in 1950. That post pays $18,000.

Condition Is Fair

The condition of Henry Beaulieu, 31, West Saugerties truck driver, was reported as "fair" at the Benedictine Hospital today. Beaulieu was injured Thursday morning in an accident on Route 9W near Schoentag's south of Saugerties.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, March 25 (AP)—The cash position of the treasury March 22: Balance $5,589,731,531.54; deposits fiscal year July 1 $45,361,773,890.61; withdrawals fiscal year $49,292,979,960.14; total debt (x) $274,273,908,538.30; gold assets $21,717,915,147.63. (x) Includes $509,976,741.55 debt not subject to statutory limit.

Engineer Shortage May Affect Program

New York, March 25 (AP)—J. W. Johnson, state superintendent of public works, says a shortage of highway engineers may hold up a planned road construction program now "assured" in New York state.

Johnson spoke last night at a dinner ending the second day of a three-day convention of the New York State Highway Engineers Assn.

"We can now look to the future with a certainty that a definite and unprecedented long-term highway construction program will be undertaken," Johnson said.

Saying that Gov. Averell Harriman "has expressed a desire to implement a dynamic and wisely financed highway program," Johnson added:

"We are assured that the governor and the Legislature will send the $750,000,000 bond issue for highway financing to the voters in November for final approval. Right here is where you must help through your efforts to persuade neighbors and friends to bring in a resounding 'yes' vote."

The only possible "bottleneck," Johnson said, is the shortage of highway engineers.

"Unless we discover ways to expand our ranks,' he said, "we're liable to find ourselves in the unique but embarrassing position of having plenty of money lying idly waiting on lagging construction plans."

Johnson said his department envisions more building construction as a result of voter approval of a 330-million-dollar bond issue last year for mental institutions. The St. Lawrence seaway project, he said, also could give the state's canal system "a new lease on life."

But he estimated that the nation will need 10,000 more engineers to carry out the federal program of aiding interstate highway construction.

Johnson said his department is going ahead with its highway planning on the assumption that more federal money for highways will be available this year, rather than waiting to see what the federal government will provide.

Toastmaster at the dinner was James S. Bixby, district engineer of Poughkeepsie

Guests were greeted by Edward A. Pitel, president of the association.

Worst Spring Blizzard Lashes Three Western Areas

Denver, March 25 (AP)—The worst spring blizzard in three years lashed three Rocky mountain states with snow and subzero cold today. One death was reported.

Schools were closed in parts of Montana and Wyoming. Elsewhere temperatures dipped to all-time lows for the month.

Snow and triphammer winds cut off electric power at Evanston, a southern Wyoming town of 3,863. Auxiliary plants were providing power to the town's two hospitals. A resident termed the inconvenience "discomforting" but "not critical."

The lone fatality was in Colorado, where winds up to 50 miles an hour hustled in the Canadian-born storm. Carl Gustave Koch, 38, of Windsor, Colo., died in a two-car accident caused by slick highways.

Even as the storm moved southward, leaving Montana skies clear for the first time in three days, the weather bureau reported another would hit that state late today, again bringing blizzard conditions.

Montana temperatures dipped

Niagara River Ice Wrecks Home

Niagara Falls, March 25 (AP)—Local residents, army engineers and coast guardsmen still watched helplessly today as the ice-filled Niagara river continued on its home and dock wrecking rampage.

The grinding mass of glacier-like ice showed no signs of washing out into Lake Ontario during the night and army engineers said the pressure behind the jam remained about the same.

Summer homes and boat docks along the shoreline below the falls were reduced to rubble as the ice went up over the river banks. Property estimated at nearly a million dollars was threatened as the huge wall of ice continued to mount.

IN SOME SPOTS, the pile-up was 50 feet deep. The only open water in the rapids below the falls was a short stretch near the Whirlpool. The Whirlpool itself, a principal tourist attraction was clogged with ice.

The shoreline from Lewiston down to Ft. Niagara on the U. S. side and from Queenston to Niagara-on-the-lake on the Canadian side, caught the brunt of the damage.

ABOVE THE FALLS, an ice jam has slowed the flow of water over the American Falls considerably.

Ice piled up against several boat storage buildings during the night endangering boats and buildings unofficially valued at more than half a million dollars.

Seven cottages were crushed by the ice at Lewiston.

Committee Votes To Kill $20 Cut

Washington, March 25 (AP)—A Senate-House conference committee today voted to kill a Democratic proposal for a $20 a person income tax cut next year.

Democrats said they "reluctantly" yielded and accepted a Senate bill merely extending present corporation income and excise tax rates for one more year.

Sen. Millikin (R-Colo.) said the conference committee recommendation would go to the Senate floor this afternoon.

It is expected to reach the House floor next Tuesday.

The committee's decision is subject to approval by both Senate and House.

The House conceivably could refuse to accept it, but that appears unlikely.

Democrats had pushed through the House a plan to give each taxpayer and each dependent a $20 tax cut starting next Jan. 1. They tied this into an Eisenhower administration bill continuing corporation and excise taxes.

The Senate voted 61-32 to take the tax cut out of the bill.

Democrats said the face of that opposition, they were forced to yield on the issue to avoid a major loss in revenue from corporation and excise taxes.

Corporate and excise taxes are scheduled to drop on April 1 by three billion dollars annually unless the extension bill is enacted by that date.

THE CONFERENCE committee voted down a last-minute Democratic compromise proposal calling for a $10 per person income tax cut.

Meanwhile, House debate on another tax bill yesterday indicated tax policy may be blowing up as the hottest political issue of the year between Democrats and Republicans.

The bill, passed unanimously by voice vote and sent to the Senate, would repeal two business tax benefits included in last year's general overhaul of all tax laws.

The merits of repeal, however, were scarcely mentioned during two hours of argument by Republican and Democratic leaders over broader tax policy.

HOUSE MAJORITY Leader McCormack (D-Mass.) called the business benefits a "hidden windfall" of several billion dollars for corporations. He charged that Republicans generally favor "the select few" and discriminate against the "little" taxpayer.

That drew a retort from deputy GOP leader Halleck (R-Ind.), that Democrats are frantically dragging up a false issue to try to stave off defeat in the 1956 presidential and congressional elections.

The approved bill would repeal sections (1) giving some business firms a tax deduction for certain estimated future expenses; and (2) postponing tax payments on some income which involves future services.

Two Proposals Are Under Study

Newark, N. J., March 25 (AP)—The New Jersey State Public Utility Commission and the City of New York today studied two weighty proposals regarding the West Shore Division of the New York Central railroad:

1. Commuters from Bergen county, N. J. and Rockland county, N. Y. yesterday asked the PUC to dismiss the Central's petition to abandon passenger service on the division.

2. The Central at the same time offered to make a gift to New York of the ferries which are part of the West Shore division.

WILLIAM A. ROBERTS, an attorney representing communities served by the line, asked the PUC in a 36-page brief to approve "indefinite continuance" of service to 4,000 daily commuters.

The PUC said it would make a decision on the brief by April 4. The railroad has until March 30 to answer it.

The offer to New York was made in a letter from A. E. Perlman, president of the Central system, to Peter Campbell Brown, the city's corporation counsel. A speedy reply was requested.

NOTING THAT BROWN had filed a petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission to keep the Central from discontinuing the ferry service between Weehawken, N. J., and Manhattan, Perlman wrote:

"In the light of the city's interest in accommodating its citizens, the New York Central is happy to hereby advise you that it will give without charge to the city of New York all the ferries which our company now owns . . ."

The Central's ferry fleet consists of seven boats.

Perlman's offer included rental of the ferry house at Weehawken for $1 a year and all equipment used in maintaining the vessels.

ROBERT CONTENDED that the Central failed to establish its legal right to relief when it completed its case two weeks ago.

"There was positively no evidence as to why the railroad had selected the West Shore Division for abandonment treatment or as to why economies could not otherwise be effected which would permit the retention of this service," he said.

The railroad has claimed that it is losing three million dollars a year on the division, including the ferry service.

Roberts also contended that the Central did not prove that the residents of the "rapidly growing communities in New Jersey along its line" could be served adequately by other means of transportation.

Kerhonkson Boy Wins Course at Lafayette School

The fourth Ulster county student to receive an engineering scholarship from Elctrol Incorporated was officially notified of his good fortune on Thursday at the office of the firm on 85 Grand street.

He is Robert E. Probst, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Probst of Kerhonkson, a senior in the high school course at Kerhonkson Union Free School.

Three other area youths now in school on Electrol scholarships are Robert J. Hecht of Highland at Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Vincent Vasile, Marlborough, at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, and William O. Gaudette, Ulster Park, also at RPI.

He advised that all high schools in Ulster county have application blanks, which students may inquire about and sign for scholarship consideration.

Veto Threat Hangs Over School Aid

Prediction Made Rejection Likely

Albany, March 25 (AP)—The threat of a veto hangs over a Republican bill to freeze state aid to education at present rates for another year.

A Democratic leader predicted yesterday that Gov. Harriman would reject the measure, which includes about half of the financial package he is demanding for New York city schools.

However, a spokesman in the governor's office said no one in the administration could say definitely whether Harriman planned to veto or sign the bill.

REPUBLICAN MAJORITIES jammed the bill through both Houses over solid Democratic opposition.

In a bitter debate over the measure, Eugene F. Brannigan, minority leader of the Assembly, declared: "Let's pass it without further argument and send it downstairs—because it's coming back up."

Bills vetoed are returned from the governor's office, on the second floor of the capitol, to the Legislature chambers on the third floor.

THE STRUGGLE over school aid came to a head again as the lawmakers sprinted through legislation in a drive to adjourn by April 5. The first Friday session of the year was called for today, although only non-controversial bills were on the calendars.

Another major item pushed along yesterday was a proposed Constitutional Amendment to legalize bingo. The Assembly approved the measure, completing legislative action for this year.

Before it can become law, the proposal must gain approval of the Legislature to be elected in 1956 and of the voters in a referendum. It could not take effect before 1958.

THE PROPOSED amendment would permit localities, at their option, to license bingo games sponsored by religious, charitable, veterans and other non-profit groups. Fifteen Assembly Republicans and one Democrat voted "no."

In New York city, the State Congress of Industrial Organizations urged Harriman to summon a special session of the Legislature should it adjourn without acting on "priority issues."

The state CIO scheduled an "emergency" conference in Al-

Bill Would Give New Deduction

Albany, March 25 (AP)—The Senate voted yesterday to let parents deduct up to $300 in college or school tuitions from their state income tax returns, starting in 1957.

The bill, passed unanimously and sent to the Assembly, would cost the state about 2½ million dollars a year.

It would allow a taxpayer to deduct from his taxable income money paid to a school, college or university in tuition for himself, his spouse or a dependent child, up to a limit of $300 a year.

The deduction would be allowed on income tax payable in 1957 on 1956 incomes.

Two Units To Be Kept At Capitol

Justice Agency Is To Make Decision

New York, March 25 (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman said today he's going to keep the Legislature in session until it finished a program that will "count for the people of this state."

He said if the Legislature failed to act on the measures it should before Easter, members would go home for a brief recess, and then come back to go to work again.

"We're going to keep them there until we get the legislation done and the things that count for the people of this state," Harriman told a state meeting of the CIO Steel Workers of America.

Harriman also said that "the danger this year is that while production and consumption will rise, employment will lag."

"THE OBJECTIVE must be to use fully our available resources of plant and manpower to achieve a higher standard of living for everyone," he added.

In a speech prepared for the State Convention of the CIO United Steelworkers of America, he also said that "last year was an unsatisfactory year — measured in production, in employment and in consumption."

Harriman said: "The rapid increase in the productivity of American industry and American Labor . . . presents a major challenge to government, to management, and to labor to bring about the expansion of our economy at a rate fast enough to keep pace with our ability to produce."

Harriman gave figures on production increases and expanded work weeks and—nvertheless—decreases in the numbers of manufacturing production workers employed.

HARRIMAN SAID:

"There is almost no limit to the things we need. It is estimated we have an accumulated need of close to a million new houses in New York state alone. We need household appliances. We need highways and schools

Mayor to Be Asked to Appoint Group To Study Redevelopment Downtown

The Kingston Housing Authority will ask Mayor Frederick H. Stang to appoint a citizens' committee to study a proposed urban redevelopment plan for downtown Kingston.

George E. Yerry, Jr., Housing Authority chairman, announced today that members of the Authority met Thursday and decided to recommend that a committee of representative citizens be named to look into the possibility of redeveloping a 10 or 12 block area downtown with the use of private capital with some federal assistance.

MAYOR STANG, although not yet officially notified of the Authority's action, said this morning he was contacted by telephone and expects to name a committee of "25 or so" persons to study the proposals in general.

The committee presumably would include a cross-section of Kingston residents, including business and professional men.

THE PLAN that is under discussion would in general involve the setting up of a coordinated plan for a definitely defined area and providing for attractive, substantial dwelling units, stores, service facilities and off-street parking. Actual development of individual blocks or groups of blocks in conformity with the over-all plan would be left to private capital, with a federal guarantee up to approximately 90 to 95 per cent on mortgages available through the Federal Housing Administration's Housing and Home Finance Agency.

The area would center about the blocks to be cleared by the Kingston Housing Authority as a part of its obligation in connection with the erection of the Colonial Gardens public housing.

AFTER STUDY by the citizens' committee, the plan may—if the committee decides to do so—be placed before the Common Council as a recommendation.

Yerry also announced that he expects to discuss various aspects of the redevelopment plan with officials of the New York State Division of Housing in New York city next week. A representative of that division, as well as other persons interested in the project, may be present at the first meeting of the citizen's committee, which will probably be held about April 5.

Peress Case Is Given to U.S. Agency

Intends to Have Program to Count

Washington, March 25 (AP)—The Senate Investigations Subcommittee today wound up its new study of the Irving Peress case, voting to let the Justice Department decide whether perjury had been committed by any of the witnesses.

Chairman McClellan (D.-Ark.) announced the decision following a closed door meeting of subcommittee members. Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), a member, did not appear.

McClellan said the decision was still subject to a motion to reconsider from McCarthy and Sen. Mundt (R.-S. D.), the only other absent member. Mundt promptly said he had no present plan to make such a motion, but McCarthy was not reached immediately.

McCARTHY HAD indicated he might pursue his questions as to whether Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, a decorated combat veteran of World War 2, had perjured himself "10 or 12 times" in testimony.

McClellan announced the subcommittee also had voted to ask the Justice Department "to further pursue the Peress case" to

Final Rates Are Given by State

Final state equalization rates have been set for 18 of Ulster county's 20 townships, and tentative rates are fixed for two villages, an Albany announcement said today.

Of the 779 towns in the state with final rates only nine had higher than those set by the board last Nov. 11, and none of these was in Ulster county.

Tentative rates for the villages of New Paltz and Pine Hill are both lower. New Paltz goes from 52 to 30 and Pine Hill from 49 to 25.

THE TWO TOWNSHIPS for which final rates have not been fixed by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment are Olive and Wawarsing.

Changes in the nine towns in the state resulted from recomputations using additional or corrected information on property values and assessment rolls. Only 17 towns in the state, to date have received final rates different from their tentative rates.

Hearings on the village rates will be held in the state office building, Albany April 19 and 20 at 10 a. m., and 2 p. m.

Decreases in rates will make increased taxing and borrowing power available over the next five years.

Will Study Idea

Washington, March 25 (AP)—The possibility of developing atomic-powered railroad locomotives will be studied by two companies. The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) said yesterday it has approved a year-long study of the project by the Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp. of Philadelphia and the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad Co. The companies will pay the costs of the project. The AEC will supply advice and available technical information. An atomic engine of the kind under consideration, the AEC said, could be used for a number of purposes in addition to propelling trains.

Two Units Bear Brunt Of Assault

CCC Overlooks Its Role, Its View

Washington, March 25 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today accused the Agriculture Department of allowing political considerations to darken the future of American farmers.

It blistered the department's management in a report recommending $878,625,391 in cash and 388 million dollars in lending authority to finance the agency for the next fiscal year. This was a net cut of only $6,424,524 from budget requests.

THE REPORT by the committee bristled with criticism of Secretary Benson and "others about him."

The Commodity Credit Corp. and its parent organization, the Commodity Stabilization Service, bore the brunt of the committee's wrath. Benson is chairman of the board of directors of the CCC, which handles the government's farm price support program.

Noting a steady drop in farm income and a steady rise in farm costs in recent years, the committee said "the outlook is for still further declines in net farm income in 1955."

Since 1945, it said, the farmers' share of the consumers' food dollar has dropped from 54 to 43 per cent and "prospects are that this trend will continue."

IN THE SOUTH particularly, it added, the situation is "deplorable" because of government curtailment of cotton acreage.

The committee accused the CCC of having "largely overlooked its responsibility to protect the government's investment in food surpluses.

The CCC has invested more than seven billion dollars to support farm prices, the committee said, but up to February of this year nearly $3,700,000,000 worth of commodities had never been offered for sale abroad at competitive prices.

"There is reason to believe that such products could be sold in world markets through normal channels if an effort were made to do so on a competitive basis," the committee commented.

MANY COUNTRIES are ready and anxious to buy, the committee said, but do not because the CCC makes the American support price substantially the offering price in world markets.

The committee said the CCC has authority to sell in world trade "at such price as it might take to move these commodities."

It directed the CCC to get a

Engineer Shortage May Affect Program

New York, March 25 (AP)—J. W. Johnson, state superintendent of public works, says a shortage of highway engineers may hold up a planned road construction program now "assured" in New York state.

Johnson spoke last night at a dinner ending the second day of a three-day convention of the New York State Highway Engineers Assn.

"We can now look to the future with a certainty that a definite and unprecedented long-term highway construction program will be undertaken," Johnson said.

Saying that Gov. Averell Harriman "has expressed a desire to implement a dynamic and wisely financed highway program," Johnson added:

"We are assured that the governor and the Legislature will send the $750,000,000 bond issue for highway financing to the voters in November for final approval. Right here is where you must help through your efforts to persuade neighbors and friends to bring in a resounding 'yes' vote."

The only possible "bottleneck," Johnson said, is the shortage of highway engineers.

"Unless we discover ways to expand our ranks,' he said, "we're liable to find ourselves in the unique but embarrassing position of having plenty of money lying idly waiting on lagging construction plans."

Johnson said his department envisions more building construction as a result of voter approval of a 350-million-dollar bond issue last year for mental institutions. The St. Lawrence seaway project, he said, also could give the state's canal system "a new lease on life."

But he estimated that the nation will need 10,000 more engineers to carry out the federal program of aiding interstate highway construction.

Johnson said his department is going ahead with its highway planning on the assumption that more federal money for highways will be available this year, rather than waiting to see what the federal government will provide.

Toastmaster at the dinner was James S. Bixby, district engineer of Poughkeepsie

Guests were greeted by Edward A. Pitel, president of the association.

Worst Spring Blizzard Lashes Three Western Areas

Denver, March 25 (AP)—The worst spring blizzard in three years lashed three Rocky mountain states with snow and subzero cold today. One death was reported.

Schools were closed in parts of Montana and Wyoming. Elsewhere temperatures dipped to all-time lows for the month.

Snow and triphammer winds cut off electric power at Evanston, a southern Wyoming town of 3,863. Auxiliary plants were providing power to the town's two hospitals. A resident termed the inconvenience "discomforting" but "not critical."

The lone fatality was in Colorado, where winds up to 50 miles an hour hustled in the Canadian-born storm. Carl Gustave Koch, 38, of Windsor, Colo., died in a two-car accident caused by slick highways.

Even as the storm moved southward, leaving Montana skies clear for the first time in three days, the weather bureau reported another would hit that state late today, again bringing blizzard conditions.

Niagara River Ice Wrecks Home

Niagara Falls, March 25 (AP)—Local residents, army engineers and coast guardsmen still watched helplessly today as the ice-filled Niagara river continued on its home and dock wrecking rampage.

The grinding mass of glacier-like ice showed no signs of washing out into Lake Ontario during the night and army engineers said the pressure behind the jam remained about the same.

Summer homes and boat docks along the shoreline below the falls were reduced to rubble as the ice went up over the river banks. Property estimated at nearly a million dollars was threatened as the huge wall of ice continued to mount.

IN SOME SPOTS, the pile-up was 50 feet deep. The only open water in the rapids below the falls was a short stretch near the Whirlpool. The Whirlpool itself, a principal tourist attraction was clogged with ice.

The shoreline from Lewiston down to Ft. Niagara on the U. S. side and from Queenston to Niagara-on-the-lake on the Canadian side, caught the brunt of the damage.

ABOVE THE FALLS, an ice jam has slowed the flow of water over the American Falls considerably.

Ice piled up against several boat storage buildings during the night endangering boats and buildings unofficially valued at more than half a million dollars.

Seven cottages were crushed by the ice at Lewiston.

Senate Is 72-21 In Favor of 10 Per Cent Raise

Washington, March 25 (AP)—The Senate today voted 72-21 to give 500,000 postal workers at least a 10 per cent increase despite the threat of a presidential veto.

The action was a setback for the administration which had proposed limiting the raise to 7.6 per cent. That proposal was beaten by the Senate 52-41.

THE. 10. PER. CENT. raise measure now goes to the House where the administration also suffered a rebuff last Monday. At that time the House overwhelmingly rejected a rule which would have meant accepting the administration's 7.6 per cent pay hike bill on take-it-or-leave-it basis.

Many Senate Republicans finally voted for the 10 per cent boost, explaining they did so reluctantly only after the administration's proposal had been killed.

DEMOCRATS declared they were "tired" of attempted dictation from the executive branch, and insisted the Senate should pass what it believed to be right.

The bill passed by the Senate would give each employe at least a 10 per cent increase in pay, but would mean more for those receiving less than $4,000 a year since it has a $400 floor.

Republican Leader Knowland (R.-Calif.) predicted President Eisenhower would not sign the 10 per cent increase if it ever reached his desk. Knowland appealed to the Senate to approve a measure which would not be an "empty gesture that will not become the law of the land."

EISENHOWER himself has said that he viewed with "grave apprehension" any bill going beyond the 7.6 per cent figure.

Approval of the 10 per cent raise is likely to set the pattern for the million classified Civil Service workers. Legislation to give a raise to them is to follow the postal pay bill.

Endorsement Is Given

Paris, March 25 (AP)—France's powerful Socialist party gave a new endorsement to German rearmament today in the Senate debate on the Paris treaties. As the ratification debate went into its final day, Socialist Sen. Henri Barre told the upper-House council of the republic he would vote for the accords to put West German troops into the western defense force "without any ifs, buts or hows."

Bill Is Vetoed

Boston, March 25 (AP)—Gov. Herter today vetoed a rent control law which the Legislature sent to him last night. Present rent controls expire March 31.

Commission Is Asked

Washington, March 25 (AP)—A presidential emergency board recommended today that a commission be established "to review and to modernize the wage rate structure" in the railroad industry.

Pay Roll Is Stolen

New York, March 25 (AP)—Four robbers, one armed with a shotgun held 60 persons at bay in a Bronx insurance office today and escaped with a $6,500 pay roll. An armored car had delivered the money only a few minutes earlier to the University Heights Branch of the Prudential Life Insurance Co., 1211 Gerard avenue, the Bronx. Two robbers posing as potential customers entered the second-floor office when it opened at 9 a. m. They inquired about insurance policies.

Syracuse Man Held on Charge

Monticello, March 25 (AP)—A Syracuse man was sought in connection with a narcotics case today while a second Syracusan was being held without bail, accused of illegal possession.

The object of the search was listed as John L. English, 25, of (718 S. Townsend St.) Syracuse.

Laurence A. Robinson, 26, of (829 S. State St.) Syracuse, was brought from Syracuse to appear before Police Judge Irving Schwartz late last night. He was held without bail for an appearance Monday afternoon when he asked for an adjournment to get an attorney.

The driver of the auto, John W. Beverly, 37, the Bronx, was fined $15 for driving without a registration. When the marijuana was found he was charged also with illegal possession and held in $5,000 bail for an appearance Monday.

Syracuse authorities said the arrests cut off a supply of narcotics bound for Syracuse.

U. S. Reports Distorted

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP) — Prof. Walter Hovey of the University of Pittsburgh, back from a tour of Asia, says he found "very little respect for life and culture of the United States." People in such countries as Lebanon, Iran, Iraq, Pakistan, India and Ceylon base their opinions of the U. S. on "mob slayings, stories of race segregation and movies," he says. "In some places I was asked if its' safe to walk along the streets alone in the United States." "Most of the Near East nations," Prof. Hovey says, "are in favor of recognizing Red China. Those countries are eager to trade with China and as long as they belong to the Western bloc they can't."

The new mayor, Arthur F. Simmons will preside at the next regular session of the village governing body to be held on Monday, April 4.

Following the regular order of business, much of which was tabled for consideration by the newly elected village board, Mayor Holmes, in a short farewell address thanked the board members for their cooperation.

Before leaving he shook hands with all the trustees in attendance, Roy S. Helsmoortel, David S. Cunningham, Joseph E. Vozdik, Elton L. Johnson, and Eugene F. Thornton and also the two members of the press, Bertram W. Burns of the Saugerties Daily Post and Albert J. Cawein of the Kingston Freeman.

Forestry Is Theme For Cubs in April

Saugerties, March 25—Forestry was announced as the Cub Scouting theme for April. In introducing this theme, leaders will center a discussion with their boys around the importance of forests and their conservation. This will lead to an explanation of the great interdependence between forests, water level, the protection of fine soil, the maintaining of streams and lakes for fish and water fowl, and the protection of all forms of wildlife.

The theme will also afford the opportunity of showing the boys how many every day things come from forests.

Cub Scouting leaders are expected to find that many organizations will offer a willing hand on this theme.

Leaders will find that the local fish and game club and it's members will cooperate in securing shrubs for planting in areas which need such management, it was announced.

Many of the Cub Scouts are busy making bird houses which will also be on display at the pack meetings.

Trips planned for the enjoyment and education of the Cubs will be visits to nearby fire towers, ranger stations, tree nursery, saw mills, furniture factory and a guided tour through a forest for the purpose of identifying various type of trees.

Science Fights Church

Moscow (AP)—To give the Russian peasants the thrill of star gazing—and, also to propagandize them on the theme of Natural Sciences vs. Religion—the Soviet Astronomy Societies are sending mobile observatories to tour the countryside. The Blue Bus of the Planetraium is becoming an increasingly familiar sight. In it are mounted powerful telescopes and then the farmers are invited to come and look. First they are given a lecture on astronomy in which the lecturer invites the farmers to "become imaginary passengers on a space ship. . . . This is what you will see." Also they get considerable atheistic propaganda in these lectures which dispute the Bible story of the Creation of the World.

They were presented with a purse and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lansing Hunt and in the evening were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Mack and family. Monday evening, a family gathering was held at the parsonage: Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Goodwin, Miss Sally E. Goodwin and David Goodwin of Beacon. Diane Dudley and George Jr., Mrs. Everett Young, another daughter, who lives in California, talked with her parents on the phone which made the occasion a very happy and pleasant affair.

A letter has been received by Ward Jansen, lay leader for the Methodist churches, telling of the appointment of district superintendent the Rev. G. Roy Bragg and Mrs. Bragg to go to Japan, during July and August on a teaching and preaching mission.

A DENIAL FROM THE STAND—John G. Adams, the Army's chief counselor, makes a hand-waving gesture from the stand March 24 as he denies a charge by Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) that he and top White House aides "conspired" at a Justice Department meeting to block Senate investigation of the Irving Peress case. Adams was a witness before the Senate investigations subcommittee which has reopened the case of Major Peress, a New York dentist honorably discharged despite his refusal to answer questions regarding Communism. Financial and Commercial

New York, March 25 (AP)—The stock market quietly worked lower today under the pressure of gentle profit-taking.

Prices were down fractions for the most part, but there were some losses going past a point. Plus signs weren't very numerous. A few were excellent.

Business was sluggish. It didn't begin to compare with the 3,170,000 shares traded in yesterday's rising market.

The market has been advancing for the past three sessions, and profit-taking at this juncture wasn't unexpected. Currently, it is near its historic high established March 4.

Most major divisions were lower or leaning lower including steels, mail order issues, aircrafts, distillers, coppers, and railroads.

Daylight Time May Be Extended Through October

(By The Associated Press)

Daylight saving time very likely will extend through October this year in the six New England states, New York and New Jersey.

Daylight time observance is statewide in New England, New York, New Jersey, Nevada, California—and the District of Columbia.

In some states (Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky, for example) the cities go on "fast time." Mainly the rural areas refuse to push the clock ahead one hour from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in September.

This year those dates are April 24 and Sept. 25.

The south, southwest, central plains states and far west (except the above two) take a dim view of daylight time.

There's one exception in the southwest. The New Mexico Legislature recently killed a bill to put the state on DST. But the atomic city of Los Alamos will go on daylight time during the April-September dates.

Veto Threat

bany Monday. President Louis Hollander said the governor, Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits and the majority and minority leaders of the Legislature would be invited.

IN A STATEMENT, the labor group said the Legislature had a "do-nothing" record and contended the fault lay largely with the Republican majorities. The CIO said also that Democrats had not fought for labor-backed measures.

The question of freezing school aid is not the major point at issue between Harriman and the Republicans. Politically speaking, neither side can afford to let the current freeze lapse on the present expiration date, June 30.

Upstate school districts would suffer heavy losses in aid if that were to happen.

HARRIMAN FAVORS pegging school aid at present rates for one year only. But he has objected previously to a feature of the bill that would permit the rates to be changed at the rate of only one-fifth a year for the ensuing five years.

The governor also has called for four million dollars in aid for instruction of foreign-born children and physically and mentally handicapped children in New York city. The Republican measure offers appropriations of two millions—statewide.

THERE HAS BEEN no controversy over these points in the bill:

1. Increasing the number of state university scholarships from 1,694 to 3,388.

2. Continuing emergency aid grants at the rate of $13 per pupil for another year.

3. Continuing aid for mushrooming school districts and the practice of advancing funds for emergency school construction.

4. Pegging state aid for town highway construction at present levels for another year.

The CIO listed the "priority issues" as continuation of statewide rent control, requesting Congress to raise the federal minimum wage to $1.25 an hour, lifting maximum benefits under state unemployment insurance from $30 to $36 a week, cutting from 20 to 15 the number of weeks of work needed to qualify for job insurance, and extending the system's coverage to 500,000 workers in small businesses.

30 Are Invited

Washington, March 25 (AP)—The Defense Department said today that 30 senior military officers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) countries are being invited to observe the public test of an atomic weapon at the Nevada Proving Grounds next month. The department additionally has invited Britain and Canada to send a "small group" of observers to another atomic test, presumably before the public demonstration.

Benson, Others

sales manager at once and to develop a program under which surplus commodities will be sold for the best price the government can get.

The committee directed the CCC to reduce its storage costs at least 20 per cent during the coming year, eventually holding one year's security reserve. The surpluses held by the CCC were acquired under price support laws adopted by Congress. Benson has contended that past price support laws were unrealistic and encouraged surplus production.

"Evidently, with the Department of Agriculture, a branch of the executive department, political and other considerations predominate to the point of preventing action.

"Proper actions by the corporation are made subservient to a host of other considerations, many of which . . . are unsound. These actions by the secretary of agriculture and others about him appear to be part of a plan to use CCC costs and losses to support their determined efforts to change the price support program."

The committee ordered restored a cut proposed by the administration of $18,359,447 in "action" programs, which include disease and pest control, soil conservation operations, flood prevention, and the school lunch program.

IT APPROVED lending authority of 160 million dollars as requested for the Rural Electrification Administration and 75 millions for rural telephone installations. The Farmers Home Administration was given 153 millions, a budget boost of 11 million, in loan authorization.

For regular departmental activities, the committee voted the department $694,107,434 in cash, a budget cut of $17,424,524. For special activities, it approved the entire $184,517,957 requested. The latter sum consists mainly of reimbursing the CCC for funds advanced to finance programs such as providing wheat for Pakistan and furnishing emergency feed assistance.

The committee cut $188,000 from the department's research budget, commenting that some of the research seemed to be of "doubtful value" in the fields of Guatemalan orchids and "the difference in clothing worn by city and farm families in Kansas."

IT INCREASED by $5,206,379 the budget for the soil conservation service and expressed concern over what it described as "evidence of efforts to gradually eliminate this program."

The agricultural conservation program was cut 35½ million dollars. The committee said there was a sizable carryover of funds from the 1953 program. For next year's conservation payment program the committee recommended 250 million dollars, an increase of 75 millions over department requests. The cash to finance the 1956 payments will be provided next year.

The committee restored $15,236,197 cut by the department from the school lunch program, recommending the program continue at the present level of $83,236,197.

Peress Case . . .

determine whether there are grounds to prosecute the former army dentist.

He said the Justice Department already has reported to him that its investigation of Peress "is not a closed case."

The committee completed public hearings yesterday in an inquiry into why the New York dentist was advanced from captain to major and got an honorable discharge after the army had recorded him as a security risk.

Most members said they were convinced that army red tape, errors and "bungling" were responsible, not some Communist "mastermind" in the Pentagon, as McCarthy has alleged.

Senate Is 72-21 In Favor of 10 Per Cent Raise

Washington, March 25 (AP)—The Senate today voted 72-21 to give 500,000 postal workers at least a 10 per cent increase despite the threat of a presidential veto.

The action was a setback for the administration which had proposed limiting the raise to 7.6 per cent. That proposal was beaten by the Senate 52-41.

THE. 10. PER. CENT. raise measure now goes to the House where the administration also suffered a rebuff last Monday. At that time the House overwhelmingly rejected a rule which would have meant accepting the administration's 7.6 per cent pay hike bill on take-it-or-leave-it basis.

Many Senate Republicans finally voted for the 10 per cent boost, explaining they did so reluctantly only after the administration's proposal had been killed.

DEMOCRATS declared they were "tired" of attempted dictation from the executive branch, and insisted the Senate should pass what it believed to be right.

The bill passed by the Senate would give each employe at least a 10 per cent increase in pay, but would mean more for those receiving less than $4,000 a year since it has a $400 floor.

Republican Leader Knowland (R.-Calif.) predicted President Eisenhower would not sign the 10 per cent increase if it ever reached his desk. Knowland appealed to the Senate to approve a measure which would not be an "empty gesture that will not become the law of the land."

EISENHOWER himself has said that he viewed with "grave apprehension" any bill going beyond the 7.6 per cent figure.

Approval of the 10 per cent raise is likely to set the pattern for the million classified Civil Service workers. Legislation to give a raise to them is to follow the postal pay bill.

Endorsement Is Given

Paris, March 25 (AP)—France's powerful Socialist party gave a new endorsement to German rearmament today in the Senate debate on the Paris treaties. As the ratification debate went into its final day, Socialist Sen. Henri Barre told the upper-House council of the republic he would vote for the accords to put West German troops into the western defense force "without any ifs, buts or hows."

Syracuse Man Held on Charge

Monticello, March 25 (AP)—A Syracuse man was sought in connection with a narcotics case today while a second Syracusan was being held without bail, accused of illegal possession.

The object of the search was listed as John L. English, 25, of (718 S. Townsend St.) Syracuse.

Laurence A. Robinson, 26, of (829 S. State St.) Syracuse, was brought from Syracuse to appear before Police Judge Irving Schwartz late last night. He was held without bail for an appearance Monday afternoon when he asked for an adjournment to get an attorney.

POLICE HAVE SAID Robinson and English were passengers in a car stopped last week near Ferndale for a motor vehicle violation. Marijuana stalks and seed pods were found in the car later.

The driver of the auto, John W. Beverly, 37, the Bronx, was fined $15 for driving without a registration. When the marijuana was found he was charged also with illegal possession and held in $5,000 bail for an appearance Monday.

Syracuse authorities said the arrests cut off a supply of narcotics bound for Syracuse.

U. S. Reports Distorted

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP) — Prof. Walter Hovey of the University of Pittsburgh, back from a tour of Asia, says he found "very little respect for life and culture of the United States." People in such countries as Lebanon, Iran, Iraq, Pakistan, India and Ceylon base their opinions of the U. S. on "mob slayings, stories of race segregation and movies," he says. "In some places I was asked if its' safe to walk along the streets alone in the United States." "Most of the Near East nations," Prof. Hovey says, "are in favor of recognizing Red China. Those countries are eager to trade with China and as long as they belong to the Western bloc they can't."

Saugerties

The new mayor, Arthur F. Simmons will preside at the next regular session of the village governing body to be held on Monday, April 4.

Before leaving he shook hands with all the trustees in attendance, Roy S. Helsmoortel, David S. Cunningham, Joseph E. Vozdik, Elton L. Johnson, and Eugene F. Thornton and also the two members of the press, Bertram W. Burns of the Saugerties Daily Post and Albert J. Cawein of the Kingston Freeman.

Forestry Is Theme For Cubs in April

Saugerties, March 25—Forestry was announced as the Cub Scouting theme for April. In introducing this theme, leaders will center a discussion with their boys around the importance of forests and their conservation. This will lead to an explanation of the great interdependence between forests, water level, the protection of fine soil, the maintaining of streams and lakes for fish and water fowl, and the protection of all forms of wildlife.

The theme will also afford the opportunity of showing the boys how many every day things come from forests.

Cub Scouting leaders are expected to find that many organizations will offer a willing hand on this theme.

Leaders will find that the local fish and game club and it's members will cooperate in securing shrubs for planting in areas which need such management, it was announced.

Many of the Cub Scouts are busy making bird houses which will also be on display at the pack meetings.

Trips planned for the enjoyment and education of the Cubs will be visits to nearby fire towers, ranger stations, tree nursery, saw mills, furniture factory and a guided tour through a forest for the purpose of identifying various type of trees.

Science Fights Church

Moscow (AP)—To give the Russian peasants the thrill of star gazing—and, also to propagandize them on the theme of Natural Sciences vs. Religion—the Soviet Astronomy Societies are sending mobile observatories to tour the countryside. The Blue Bus of the Planetraium is becoming an increasingly familiar sight. In it are mounted powerful telescopes and then the farmers are invited to come and look. First they are given a lecture on astronomy in which the lecturer invites the farmers to "become imaginary passengers on a space ship. . . . This is what you will see." Also they get considerable atheistic propaganda in these lectures which dispute the Bible story of the Creation of the World.

Stone Ridge

Stone Ridge, March 25—Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Hardenbergh and Mrs. Ross Osterhoudt spent Wednesday in New York.

Mrs. Ina Davis, who has been a patient in the hospital, will return to her home this weekend.

The Rev. and Mrs. George Goodwin celebrated their 34th wedding anniversary on Sunday. They were presented with a purse and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lansing Hunt and in the evening were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Mack and family. Monday evening, a family gathering was held at the parsonage: Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Goodwin, Miss Sally E. Goodwin and David Goodwin of Beacon. Diane Dudley and George Jr., Mrs. Everett Young, another daughter, who lives in California, talked with her parents on the phone which made the occasion a very happy and pleasant affair.

Sunday school board met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Lawrence on Monday evening and made tentative plans for a vacation Bible school. Another meeting will be held on April 4.

A letter has been received by Ward Jansen, lay leader for the Methodist churches, telling of the appointment of district superintendent the Rev. G. Roy Bragg and Mrs. Bragg to go to Japan, during July and August on a teaching and preaching mission.

A DENIAL FROM THE STAND—John G. Adams, the Army's chief counselor, makes a hand-waving gesture from the stand March 24 as he denies a charge by Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) that he and top White House aides "conspired" at a Justice Department meeting to block Senate investigation of the Irving Peress case. Adams was a witness before the Senate investigations subcommittee which has reopened the case of Major Peress, a New York dentist honorably discharged despite his refusal to answer questions regarding Communism. Financial and Commercial

New York, March 25 (AP)—The stock market quietly worked lower today under the pressure of gentle profit-taking.

Prices were down fractions for the most part, but there were some losses going past a point. Plus signs weren't very numerous. A few were excellent.

Business was sluggish. It didn't begin to compare with the 3,170,000 shares traded in yesterday's rising market.

The market has been advancing for the past three sessions, and profit-taking at this juncture wasn't unexpected. Currently, it is near its historic high established March 4.

Most major divisions were lower or leaning lower including steels, mail order issues, aircrafts, distillers, coppers, and railroads.

Daylight Time May Be Extended Through October

(By The Associated Press)

Daylight saving time very likely will extend through October this year in the six New England states, New York and New Jersey.

Daylight time observance is statewide in New England, New York, New Jersey, Nevada, California—and the District of Columbia.

In some states (Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky, for example) the cities go on "fast time." Mainly the rural areas refuse to push the clock ahead one hour from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in September.

This year those dates are April 24 and Sept. 25.

The south, southwest, central plains states and far west (except the above two) take a dim view of daylight time.

There's one exception in the southwest. The New Mexico Legislature recently killed a bill to put the state on DST. But the atomic city of Los Alamos will go on daylight time during the April-September dates.

Veto Threat

bany Monday. President Louis Hollander said the governor, Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits and the majority and minority leaders of the Legislature would be invited.

IN A STATEMENT, the labor group said the Legislature had a "do-nothing" record and contended the fault lay largely with the Republican majorities. The CIO said also that Democrats had not fought for labor-backed measures.

The question of freezing school aid is not the major point at issue between Harriman and the Republicans. Politically speaking, neither side can afford to let the current freeze lapse on the present expiration date, June 30.

Upstate school districts would suffer heavy losses in aid if that were to happen.

HARRIMAN FAVORS pegging school aid at present rates for one year only. But he has objected previously to a feature of the bill that would permit the rates to be changed at the rate of only one-fifth a year for the ensuing five years.

The governor also has called for four million dollars in aid for instruction of foreign-born children and physically and mentally handicapped children in New York city. The Republican measure offers appropriations of two millions—statewide.

THERE HAS BEEN no controversy over these points in the bill:

1. Increasing the number of state university scholarships from 1,694 to 3,388.

2. Continuing emergency aid grants at the rate of $13 per pupil for another year.

3. Continuing aid for mushrooming school districts and the practice of advancing funds for emergency school construction.

4. Pegging state aid for town highway construction at present levels for another year.

The CIO listed the "priority issues" as continuation of statewide rent control, requesting Congress to raise the federal minimum wage to $1.25 an hour, lifting maximum benefits under state unemployment insurance from $30 to $36 a week, cutting from 20 to 15 the number of weeks of work needed to qualify for job insurance, and extending the system's coverage to 500,000 workers in small businesses.

30 Are Invited

Washington, March 25 (AP)—The Defense Department said today that 30 senior military officers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) countries are being invited to observe the public test of an atomic weapon at the Nevada Proving Grounds next month. The department additionally has invited Britain and Canada to send a "small group" of observers to another atomic test, presumably before the public demonstration.

Benson, Others

sales manager at once and to develop a program under which surplus commodities will be sold for the best price the government can get.

The committee directed the CCC to reduce its storage costs at least 20 per cent during the coming year, eventually holding one year's security reserve. The surpluses held by the CCC were acquired under price support laws adopted by Congress. Benson has contended that past price support laws were unrealistic and encouraged surplus production.

"Evidently, with the Department of Agriculture, a branch of the executive department, political and other considerations predominate to the point of preventing action.

"Proper actions by the corporation are made subservient to a host of other considerations, many of which . . . are unsound. These actions by the secretary of agriculture and others about him appear to be part of a plan to use CCC costs and losses to support their determined efforts to change the price support program."

The committee ordered restored a cut proposed by the administration of $18,359,447 in "action" programs, which include disease and pest control, soil conservation operations, flood prevention, and the school lunch program.

IT APPROVED lending authority of 160 million dollars as requested for the Rural Electrification Administration and 75 millions for rural telephone installations. The Farmers Home Administration was given 153 millions, a budget boost of 11 million, in loan authorization.

For regular departmental activities, the committee voted the department $694,107,434 in cash, a budget cut of $17,424,524. For special activities, it approved the entire $184,517,957 requested. The latter sum consists mainly of reimbursing the CCC for funds advanced to finance programs such as providing wheat for Pakistan and furnishing emergency feed assistance.

The committee cut $188,000 from the department's research budget, commenting that some of the research seemed to be of "doubtful value" in the fields of Guatemalan orchids and "the difference in clothing worn by city and farm families in Kansas."

IT INCREASED by $5,206,379 the budget for the soil conservation service and expressed concern over what it described as "evidence of efforts to gradually eliminate this program."

The agricultural conservation program was cut 35½ million dollars. The committee said there was a sizable carryover of funds from the 1953 program. For next year's conservation payment program the committee recommended 250 million dollars, an increase of 75 millions over department requests. The cash to finance the 1956 payments will be provided next year.

The committee restored $15,236,197 cut by the department from the school lunch program, recommending the program continue at the present level of $83,236,197.

Peress Case . . .

determine whether there are grounds to prosecute the former army dentist.

He said the Justice Department already has reported to him that its investigation of Peress "is not a closed case."

The committee completed public hearings yesterday in an inquiry into why the New York dentist was advanced from captain to major and got an honorable discharge after the army had recorded him as a security risk.

Most members said they were convinced that army red tape, errors and "bungling" were responsible, not some Communist "mastermind" in the Pentagon, as McCarthy has alleged.

Belgian Officials Move to Prevent March on Capital

Brussels, Belgium, March 25 (AP) — Belgian authorities took emergency steps today to head off a threatened Roman Catholic march on the capital tomorrow to protest the government's proposed slash in subsidies to church schools.

The governor of Brabant Province—of which Brussels is the seat—ordered all roads into the capital patrolled to enforce a ban on group movements of buses or trucks into Brussels.

AUTHORITIES also forbade use of more than 100 special trains set up to bring demonstrators into the city. Fearing violent clashes would break out, the government moved state police reinforcements into the city.

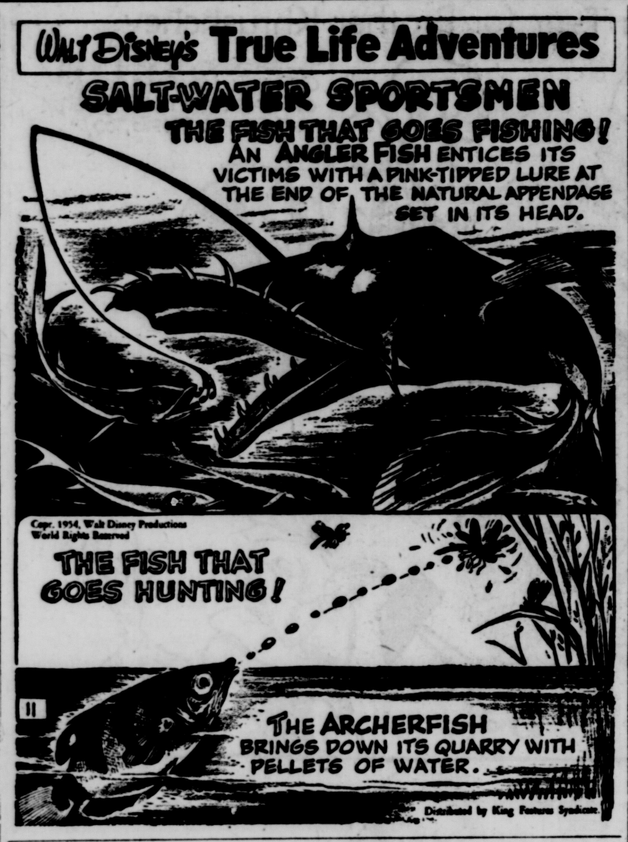
Despite the barriers, Catholic organizations served notice they planned to go through with the demonstration against what they charge is a government move to freeze out the church schools in favor of the state system.

THE PUBLIC protest against the subsidy cut was launched by a parents' strike yesterday which kept nearly a million Catholic children home from school. Of Belgium's 1,600,000 school children, 900,000 attend church schools.

The government contends it is trying to correct alleged abuses by the previous regime which had a Catholic majority in the cabinet. It accused its predecessor of encouraging parochial schools at the expense of state institutions. The present government's general plan is to strengthen state schools.

Cancer Is Curable

About 5 per cent of lung cancer cases are cured today. More than 50 per cent could be cured if they were diagnosed early enough.



Senate Passes Wicks' Bill

Albany, March 24 (AP) — Employers could fire and refuse to rehire any employes who invoke the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about Communist, subversive or treasonable activities by terms of a bill passed by the Senate today.

The measure, approved unanimously, was sent to the Assembly.

It was sponsored by Sen. Arthur H. Wicks, Kingston Republican. A companion measure has been filed in the Assembly by Edwyn E. Mason, Delaware county Republican.

Wicks and Mason have said that employers should have a right to choose whether to retain workers "who hide behind the Fifth Amendment and refuse to testify in a matter concerning the safety of our country."

Cancer Cost

The United States will have about 500,000 new cancer cases this year, according to estimates. That means a loss of 3,500,000 man-years of work, and will cost society $12,000,000,000 in lost goods and services.

The children of ancient Rome played marbles, jackstones and hopscotch in much the same form as the games used by modern children.

HAND GRENADE

The hand grenade, which is a deadly instrument of war, would not be good for eating, but it got its name from the pomegranate fruit. In French pomegranate is "grenade." The name was applied to the war implement because it is filled with grains of iron (along with gun powder) which resemble pomegranate seeds.

NOTICE

Within the next few months groups of IBM personnel will come to Kingston for a period of training on the maintenance of equipment to be manufactured here. The training period requires several months, and when one group finishes its training another begins; thus, the training program is continuous. Approximately 100 students will begin training within the next 6 months, some of whom will arrive in 30 days. The program is expected to expand to approximately 700 students in training simultaneously during the next 5 to 6 years at least.

The majority of the men in these groups are married and some have children. They average in age from 20 to 24 years, and in most instances are college or technical school graduates. They are regular IBM employees who will be assigned elsewhere upon completion of their training.

Experience at other plant locations indicates that private housing arrangements provide the most satisfactory solution to living accommodations, serving as it does both the community and the students, as well as helping to integrate the company into community life.

There is, therefore, a coming need for short-term though continuous housing which, hopefully, the community can supply. Single rooms, double (twin-bedded) rooms, 1- and 2-bedroom FURNISHED apartments with modern conveniences will be in demand. In announcing this need for housing, the company is acting only as a point of centralized information for the students. Final selections and all arrangements will be made by the men in their own behalf, as they are responsible for their own living expenses while in training.

Those within a radius of 15 miles of the IBM Kingston Plant who desire to assist in this housing program are invited to register their names and housing units with us. Preferably, please write to IBM Corporation, Dept. of Education, Kingston, New York, giving your name, address, telephone number and the number of separate units available. Forms with which you may register your units will be mailed to you with instructions. Thank you for your assistance.

EASTER SEALS

The sheets of Easter Seals which have been mailed to most homes along with an appeal for contributions to crippled children can mean a very great deal to thousands of boys and girls in the Empire State—if the Appeal is answered.

A gift—your contribution, whether large or small—may mean that a little girl toddler, partially paralyzed since birth, can have the braces and training that will teach her how to walk.

It can mean that a bright youngster born with a cleft palate will be able to talk like other people, and his playmates will no longer tell him that he is dumb.

It can mean that anxious parents will be reassured and will have hope for the future of their disabled youngsters; that public fears about the aftermath of crippling diseases can be eased; and that research will uncover new and even faster methods of putting crippled children back on their feet, literally.

There can be no greater crusade than this effort to put physically impaired boys or girls back into the whirl of a normal life, to share its games and its everyday experiences with those of their own age, and later, to make their own way through life.

This is the life-sized meaning behind the sheets of Easter Seals you may have received by now. Your gift, between now and Easter Sunday, will help to bring that meaning home to boys and girls who depend on you now, so that they can depend on themselves later.

A cynic maintains that not only doesn't he believe in astrology but he doesn't even believe in astronomy. It's a free country and he doesn't have to believe in anything he doesn't want to—not even arithmetic. But wouldn't he be surprised if the sun didn't rise tomorrow and there wasn't any harvest moon next September?

REASONABLE AMENDMENT

When in doubt, introduce a constitutional amendment. This is the motto of some congressmen, who would like to fix permanently in the constitution some bit of lawmaking that they fancy. They introduce the amendment, and nothing more is heard about it. That may be the fate of the measure proposed by Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, but it deserves a better, and has solid merit.

Byrd would authorize the President to veto individual items in appropriation bills. That is the rule in some states, and was included in the constitution of the Confederacy. It is an excellent idea. Many appropriation bills, like those for post offices and rivers and harbors, contain desirable provisions, and also some for which there is no excuse. They are inserted by logrolling. "You roll my log and I will roll yours. You vote for my appropriation, and I will return the favor."

Sometimes unrelated legislation which, left to itself, would be vetoed, is tacked on to appropriation bills, simply because presidents are loath to veto the whole bill and for a time put a whole department out of business.

President Eisenhower has already proposed one constitutional amendment, that of giving voting rights to 18-year-olds. He might also get behind the Byrd plan to his own and the nation's advantage.

A leading industrialist predicts that military airplanes will go up to two thousand miles an hour within five years. This is truly an age in which we must hang on to our hats, even if we can't to our imaginations.

You can always tell it is spring when sleds and skates give way to baseballs, as booby traps to trip over on the front porch.

How often do we claim we are so busy that we can't get at those neglected letters, odd jobs or other chores around the house? And, strange as it seems, there's good in this. We should never allow ourselves to be discouraged unless we have time to ponder what to fret about.

We probably all know some people, who, if they were twice as clever as they try to be, still wouldn't be half as smart as they think they are.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

WAS IT TRUTHFUL?

At the end of the Yalta Conference, a joint statement was issued by Stalin, Roosevelt and Churchill, dated February 11, 1945. It was supposed to tell everything that needed to be told about the decisions reached. In view of the documents now made available, this statement signed by the three great men is startling because it obviously provided no actual guide to Stalin's attitude which, however, is altogether clear in the documents.

Take for instance, the Far Eastern provisions which restored to Soviet Russia the imperialistic program of Czarist Russia, obliterating the results of the Russo-Japanese War (1905). Stalin stipulated that he would come into the Far Eastern War, "two or three months" after the Germans had surrendered provided all these astonishing conditions were made. Roosevelt agreed to act as middleman to see to it that Chiang Kai-shek accepted the terms as they affected Outer Mongolia and Manchuria. The agreement read:

". . . The President will take measures in order to obtain this concurrence (on the part of Chiang Kai-shek) on advice from Marshal Stalin."

This agreement has a background. After Pearl Harbor, Stalin gave an assurance to Ambassador Harriman (General John R. Deane, "The Strange Alliance"), that he would enter the war, with no strings attached. He gave similar assurances to Ambassador Hurley in April 1943 and to Secretary Hull in October 1943. At Teheran, however, according to Robert Sherwood, quoting Harry Hopkins, Roosevent mentioned the possibility of the Russians having access to Dairen in Manchuria. Stalin, according to Sherwood, still quoting Hopkins, "immediately expressed the opinion that the Chinese would object to this proposal, but Roosevelt said he thought they would agree to having Dairen made a free port under international guarantee. . . ."

The absurdity of Roosevelt's suggestion appears in the whole of Chinese history since the Treaty of Shimonoseki (1895). Stalin understood that situation better than Roosevelt did and showed a more profound sense of Chinese reactions, but why should he not take a chance on getting a warm water port for nothing if Roosevelt offered it?

By October 1944, according to General Deane, Stalin told Ambassador Harriman that he would join the Far Eastern war provided the Chinese recognized Russia's claims against Japan, namely the very terms which were settled upon at Yalta without any Chinese, Nationalist or Communist, being present. Stalin, at Yalta, got more than he anticipated and he got it with only a promise to enter the Far Eastern War "two or three months" after the Germans surrendered.

The question that will be discussed for a long time and that may become a political issue of the widest dimensions now that the Yalta Documents have been published, is whether it was necessary first to hold out this offer to Stalin and then to give him more than he wanted.

Here one must go back to General Douglas MacArthur who sent a message to the President just before the Yalta Conference advising that it was not necessary to have Russia in the Far Eastern War, that the Japanese were defeated, that they knew that they were defeated and were pleading for peace. Averell Harriman, in testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, made the point:

"Their (Churchill's and Roosevelt's) primary objective was to maintain Russia as an effective fighting ally. This problem in itself gave grave concern, not only as to the military capabilities of the Soviet forces, but also as to whether the Kremlin would make separate arrangements with Hitler and leave the Western Allies stranded. The building of mutual confidence in the conduct of the war was not an easy task. But the fact remains that Russia was an effective fighting ally, and carried out vital military undertakings against Hitler."

Nothing in the documents indicates that Stalin wanted to get out of the war. If sections of these documents are still suppressed and provide such evidence, they should be published. The fact is that Stalin showed every enthusiasm for continuing the war to victory. Why was he given such a heavy Far Eastern bribe, including the Purile Islands at a time when it was MacArthur's judgment that the war had been won?

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

A BELT FOR BACK STRAIN

Some years ago I consulted an orthopedic physician because of a sprained back. The physician found that strapping the back snugly relieved the pain and I used a belt that supported the back around the sacroiliac or low back region. It was, however, four years before I felt completely well again and could discontinue the use of the back support. The pain was caused by pressure on a nerve root in the low back, sometimes called a sacroiliac sprain of which many football, hockey, and other athletes are sufferers. I prescribed a similar belt, called the Goldthwait belt, after Dr. Joe Goldthwait of Boston whom I had consulted, for many athletes and others similarly injured and who found considerable relief of pain from its use.

Recently, in the Journal of the American Medical Association, I came across the description of a belt that is helping many others become free of back pain. Dr. Philip Lewin of Chicago says, "During the past 35 years I have prescribed, from time to time, an ordinary polo belt for certain back disorders, chiefly strains and sprains at waist level. Ten years ago I modified the regular polo belt by having a three-inch gusset of heavy elastic webbing inserted in each side of the belt. The cuts were made on the bias which allowed some elasticity without sacrifice of support. It also permits the belt to be worn at a lower level and thereby supports two important joints in the hips—the lumbosacral and sacroiliacs. The belt selected should be one size smaller than a person's waist measurement."

Dr. Lewin found the belt helpful in the following situations: lumbago, shoveling snow, playing golf, amateur gardening, and carrying the baby; and there are doubtless many other similar employments in which it will be found useful. It can be worn at night as well as during the day but it is warned that it should not be considered a substitute for a back brace or reinforced corset or belt.

Dr. Lewin adds that in a large department store where he bought a polo belt, the saleswoman told him that in a group of 100 persons who purchased these belts, she had 99 calls because of backache and one for playing polo.

Sometimes an ordinary porous plaster gives support and also acts as a guide to keep the individual aware of his sprain or strain so that he will not attempt heavy lifting or attempt walking where there is unsure footing, such as ice and snow.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington—(NEA) — Sen. Norris Cotton (R., N. H.) claims it's a major operation these days to get the Post Office Department to issue a commemorative stamp

"For three years now," complains Cotton in a letter to his constituents, "we of the New Hampshire delegation have been butting our heads against a stone wall."

What they want in particular is a stamp commemorating the 150th anniversary of that famous New Hampshire landmark and tourist attraction known as "The Great Stone Face."

When Senator Cotton went to the White House to discuss plans for a Presidential trip to New Hampshire this summer, he was finally able to put over his deal.

"Immediately I began shedding crocodile tears on the subject of the stamp, reciting some of the lesser events that had been commemorated, protesting that New Hampshire had been left out in the cold, and insisting that if the President is coming we should have the stamp which would honor him as well as the other 'Old Man.'

"It worked," the senator reported proudly. "The White House called Postmaster General Arthur Sommerfield, who 'thought it could be done.' . . . A committee came down from New Hampshire to give the Post Office Department the background facts, and it looks like we're in."

THE DEMOCRATIC 84th Congress is off to a much better start than the Republican 83rd Congress record of two years ago on the number of bills passed. It's twice as good, in fact.

From Jan. 3 to Feb. 28, 1955, eight new laws were approved by the President. During the same period of 1953, while the new Republican majority was trying to get organized, only four bills were passed.

In the first two months of 1954, however, the Republicans checked off 12 new laws, 50 per cent better than this year.

Most important measures passed this year was the authorization for the President to defend Formosa with U. S. forces. Among the tricky-track bills that scooted through this year were an invitation to hold the 1960 Olympic games in Detroit and the correction of a clerical error in the Internal Revenue code which had abolished penalties for violation of the narcotics law.

COMMUNIST Czechoslovakia continues to provide Free Europe Press with plenty of laughs for recirculation behind the Iron Curtain to show up the workers' paradise. Here are two samples:

Straz Miru, published in Carlsbad, gives this clue on progress: "Upon being asked when construction began on a large house on which he was working, a mason replied, "I don't know. I have only been with this company for two years. I could find out by looking at the cornerstone, but it's under water."

Dikobraz, a weekly journal, noted in a recent issue that "J. R." was celebrating his fifth anniversary of the delivery of his car to a repair shop, from which it has not been returned. In 1953 a serviceman had told the owner the best way to start his car was to get it rolling from the top of a hill.

THERE'S A GROWING suspicion among highway experts in Washington that President Eisenhower's $101 billion road program has halted highway planning in many states. Some governors, state legislatures and state highway commissions have taken the attitude of, "Let's wait and see what Uncle Sam does before we spend any of our own money."

AMERICAN FEDERATION of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations are also going to have to get together on who's responsible for and who's sponsoring Labor Day.

In answer to a recent U. S. Chamber of Commerce questionnaire on special days, weeks and months observed in the United States, CIO disclaimed sponsorship for Labor Day and claimed it was Uncle Sam's responsibility. In response to the same query, AFL proudly asserted it had sponsored Labor Day for 71 years.

A WIDE OPEN and unblushing appeal for a return to old-time political spoils and patronage systems has been made by Assistant Secretary of Commerce James C. Worthy.

"I think that in our enthusiasm for extending the scope of the Civil Service merit system, we have come dangerously close to denying our political parties the sustenance they need to retain their health and vitality," he declared in a speech to personal administrators.

"Under the American political system," he continued, "some unifying and sustaining feature is necessary. Historically, this factor has been patronage. . . . Many difficulties of the Republican party today are directly traceable to what may best be described as 20 years of malnutrition."

Worry Over Squirrels Around Capital Adds to Quirks of Washington News

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 24—These are strange times in Washington—strange because, with the world in a worried mood, there are Democrats in Congress who seem to be worried only about trivialities.

Thus, one senator, a prominent Democrat, wants to raise a fund to build a fence so that the squirrels which, he says, were ordered off the White House grounds could return and the President still be able to practice golf on a smooth putting green. But it turns out that Mr. Eisenhower didn't know a thing about the squirrels until he read about them in the newspapers. Maybe groundkeepers of the White House lawns should consult congressmen hereafter before trying to keep animals of all kinds, large or small, out of the grounds.

THEN ANOTHER senator, also a prominent Democrat, says he wants to see an investigation begun to discover how the Yalta papers "leaked" to a certain newspaper — "The New York Times." But it turns out the documents were actually released on the same day last week to all the newspapers simultaneously. Nobody had a "scoop." So there was only a hypothetical "leak" after all.

But assuming that "The Times" or any other newspaper gets a "scoop" hereafter, is the reporter to be investigated and in his informant to be declared a "security risk?" One Democratic senator solemnly hands down a decision that whoever gave the Yalta papers to any reporter in advance is a "security risk."

"The Times" hasn't told who its informant was, but it wasn't the Secretary of State and the documents were never formally classified as secret, either. They were just pieces of historical literature. Messrs. Churchill, Byrnes and Stettinius have all published books with data in them from the Yalta records.

THE POT shouldn't call the kettle black. Senators regularly "leak" to the press information that they get from the executive branch of the government. Also, under the Truman administration, the most sensational "leaks" occurred, and nobody on the Republican side seemed to worry about the "scoops" the newspapers got.

One conspicuous instance, for example, was the "leak" that gave a reporter for "The New York Times" a copy of the transcript made at the meeting between President Truman and Gen. MacArthur at Wake Island in 1950 shortly after the Korean War began. A government stenographer was planted outside the door without the general's knowledge, and the notes were allowed to get into print without consulting the Far Eastern commander as to their accuracy. Dulles at least consulted Churchill before making public the Yalta papers.

NOBODY at the time thought there was a "security breach" in the publication of the Wake Island papers, though the ethics used in planting a stenographer clandestinely to eavesdrop were questioned by some critics.

Also, didn't President Truman himself "leak" to a friendly senator in October, 1952, a document written in 1947, revealing Gen. Eisenhower's recommendations while a member of the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff? Wasn't it the plain purpose to try to embarrass Mr. Eisenhower politically when he was a presidential candidate? All this was revealed just a few months ago in Senate debate.

AS FOR confidential informants, the newspapers could hardly print all the news articles they do each day if the persons who are the sources of their information did not rely on the reporters to withhold their names. The courts have for the most part upheld the right of the press to conceal confidential informants. Day by day government officials give out information with the explicit understanding that it isn't to be attributed to them. This happens all through the government—especially on Capitol Hill.

Yet today the American Civil Liberties Union, which has a tendency to uphold most of the "left wing" attacks on the security system, is demanding that all confidential informants of the FBI be disclosed in any personnel hearings inside the government. A concerted effort by various organizations is under way to try to accomplish this. Any one who presents any information that could be regarded as derogatory must be willing, if such a program is ever adopted, to have his name used in a formal proceeding, or presumably such information will not be available to the government.

This is about the cleverest scheme yet devised to break down the whole system of ferreting out subversives in the government. Yet there are sections of the press which insist on protecting confidential informants for their own use but would deny such a device to the government itself as a guide in employment practices. It's an era of strange contraditions.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Tucson, Arizona, March 24—This time of the year, George Spelvin, American, in his millions, receives notices of "stockholders' meetings" from the big corporations in which he has invested the remnant of money left him after many taxes, the expenses of existence, charities and luxuries.

Actually, the Spelvins never do attend such meetings and many of them do not even take the trouble to sign the proxies which the directors send them, soliciting permission to go ahead and use their own judgment.

There are a couple of interesting characters in New York named Lewis D. and John J. Gilbert who make a practice of attending as stockholders and needling the brass. I observe in the current notice from A T and T that the Gilberts intend to press a resolution on April 10 which would limit to $25,000 all future pensons to officers of the corporation. They say their purpose is to prevent "future $91,000 pensions or other pensions described in the last proxy statement as being potentially as high as $72,000."

I assume that the $91,000 pension is the one paid to Walter Gifford, who took down and served a hitch as Truman's ambassador in London and is now vegetating. Mr. Gifford certainly contributed a great deal to the development of A T and T and its subsidiaries, altogether a vital "facility" as the New Dealer jargonians called things which they wanted arbitrary power to seize under the pretext of national emergency. He had to stand off a malicious attempt of the Roosevelt cabal to dissipate the company as an illegal monopoly after he turned down Jimmy's solicitation of A T and T's insurance business. That took nerve and character.

Ham Fish, of all people, and he a genuine Republican, wrangled a personal introduction of the bald eaglet of the dynasty to Gifford and frankly admonished Walter in Jimmy's presence that it would do no harm "to have a friend at court." That is Ham's own version of his very words. This was weird conduct by a Republican who hated our leader's tripes and vice versa, but Ham said he took Jimmy in because Baldy had gone to Harvard, too. The anti-trust suit cost A T and T more than a million and the interruption of normal progressive business and loss of efficiency imposed a further penalty that nobody could calculate.

There is no sense arguing whether Gifford earned his big pension. It is a fixed reality and that is all there is to it. However, these New York Gilberts are right as far as they go and I would gladly encourage them if I were sure of their ultimate purpose. I don't know enough to commend them to you but if you want to inquire, their address is 1165 Park avenue, New York, 28.

I object to their proposal because it does not go far enough. None of the corporation executives really deserve any pension whatever. The Phelps-Dodge system, called a deferred profit-sharing plan, which is just euphony disguising nothing, does not pay off if consolidated net income falls below $2 a share. The company contributes 3 per cent of this net income or 10 per cent of the aggregate salaries of the salaried beneficiaries, "whichever is less."

But my position is that all such people are square with the board on their final pay-days. They deserve nothing thereafter. If they are underpaid, let them say so. After all, to be blunt and honest, they have the power to set their own salaries. And they do. But it has become general practice to set these salaries below their actual worth and rig all kinds of deferred-compensation gags so that they can duck some of their income tax burden. Let them save up for their own old age. In all discussions of this dodge, they all frankly state that their taxes in the upper brackets are practically confiscatory. Sure they are. But it is the same with a lot of other people. And if we make a privileged caste of these high-salaried executives, they will not take their part in the fight to reduce the income tax. They will sit back and laugh at our misery. If it hurts them as much as it hurts others, they will make common cause with the rest. And, because they plainly are, for the most part, unusually intelligent, diligent men, they could help a great deal.

I won a few shares of a prosperous company called Freeport Sulphur. I bought it on a tip and took a chance of losing my taw. The management must be good, for the stock has gone up but I am paying the executives all the way from about $24,000 to $106,000 a year and they must think I am doing all right by them as they have the power to kick the ante whenever they want to. But here in this proxy statement I find a little table which reminds me of a leper exhibiting his sores. The table shows that the poor fellow who draws $106,000 a year from me is cut down to $49,510 by the federal income tax. Well, I couldn't care less, having troubles of my own. But he and the rest of them have let me in on the delicious privilege of paying them pensions ranging from $17,693 to $52,500 for life after 65. That $52,500 is for the president who now gets the $106,000, gross. It is more than he has left after taxes today, although, of course, the pension will be taxed, too.

These men "contribute" to their pensions but they ought to pay it all. They have no more right to a pension from me than I have to a pension from them. Neither has the day-wage help. We Spelvins work for our money and if the federal social security is good enough for Spelvin it is good enough for everyone else.

Stalin, according to Sherwood, still quoting Hopkins, "immediately expressed the opinion that the Chinese would object to this proposal, but Roosevelt said he thought they would agree to having Dairen made a free port under international guarantee. . . ."

The absurdity of Roosevelt's suggestion appears in the whole of Chinese history since the Treaty of Shimonoseki (1895). Stalin understood that situation better than Roosevelt did and showed a more profound sense of Chinese reactions, but why should he not take a chance on getting a warm water port for nothing if Roosevelt offered it?

By October 1944, according to General Deane, Stalin told Ambassador Harriman that he would join the Far Eastern war provided the Chinese recognized Russia's claims against Japan, namely the very terms which were settled upon at Yalta without any Chinese, Nationalist or Communist, being present. Stalin, at Yalta, got more than he anticipated and he got it with only a promise to enter the Far Eastern War "two or three months" after the Germans surrendered.

The question that will be discussed for a long time and that may become a political issue of the widest dimensions now that the Yalta Documents have been published, is whether it was necessary first to hold out this offer to Stalin and then to give him more than he wanted.

Here one must go back to General Douglas MacArthur who sent a message to the President just before the Yalta Conference advising that it was not necessary to have Russia in the Far Eastern War, that the Japanese were defeated, that they knew that they were defeated and were pleading for peace. Averell Harriman, in testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, made the point:

"Their (Churchill's and Roosevelt's) primary objective was to maintain Russia as an effective fighting ally. This problem in itself gave grave concern, not only as to the military capabilities of the Soviet forces, but also as to whether the Kremlin would make separate arrangements with Hitler and leave the Western Allies stranded. The building of mutual confidence in the conduct of the war was not an easy task. But the fact remains that Russia was an effective fighting ally, and carried out vital military undertakings against Hitler."

Nothing in the documents indicates that Stalin wanted to get out of the war. If sections of these documents are still suppressed and provide such evidence, they should be published. The fact is that Stalin showed every enthusiasm for continuing the war to victory. Why was he given such a heavy Far Eastern bribe, including the Purile Islands at a time when it was MacArthur's judgment that the war had been won?

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

A BELT FOR BACK STRAIN

Some years ago I consulted an orthopedic physician because of a sprained back. The physician found that strapping the back snugly relieved the pain and I used a belt that supported the back around the sacroiliac or low back region. It was, however, four years before I felt completely well again and could discontinue the use of the back support. The pain was caused by pressure on a nerve root in the low back, sometimes called a sacroiliac sprain of which many football, hockey, and other athletes are sufferers. I prescribed a similar belt, called the Goldthwait belt, after Dr. Joe Goldthwait of Boston whom I had consulted, for many athletes and others similarly injured and who found considerable relief of pain from its use.

Recently, in the Journal of the American Medical Association, I came across the description of a belt that is helping many others become free of back pain. Dr. Philip Lewin of Chicago says, "During the past 35 years I have prescribed, from time to time, an ordinary polo belt for certain back disorders, chiefly strains and sprains at waist level. Ten years ago I modified the regular polo belt by having a three-inch gusset of heavy elastic webbing inserted in each side of the belt. The cuts were made on the bias which allowed some elasticity without sacrifice of support. It also permits the belt to be worn at a lower level and thereby supports two important joints in the hips—the lumbosacral and sacroiliaes. The belt selected should be one size smaller than a person's waist measurement."

Dr. Lewin found the belt helpful in the following situations: lumbago, shoveling snow, playing golf, amateur gardening, and carrying the baby; and there are doubtless many other similar employments in which it will be found useful. It can be worn at night as well as during the day but it is warned that it should not be considered a substitute for a back brace or reinforced corset or belt.

Dr. Lewin adds that in a large department store where he bought a polo belt, the saleswoman told him that in a group of 100 persons who purchased these belts, she had 99 calls because of backache and one for playing polo.

Sometimes an ordinary porous plaster gives support and also acts as a guide to keep the individual aware of his sprain or strain so that he will not attempt heavy lifting or attempt walking where there is unsure footing, such as ice and snow.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington—(NEA) — Sen. Norris Cotton (R., N. H.) claims it's a major operation these days to get the Post Office Department to issue a commemorative stamp

"For three years now," complains Cotton in a letter to his constituents, "we of the New Hampshire delegation have been butting our heads against a stone wall."

What they want in particular is a stamp commemorating the 150th anniversary of that famous New Hampshire landmark and tourist attraction known as "The Great Stone Face."

When Senator Cotton went to the White House to discuss plans for a Presidential trip to New Hampshire this summer, he was finally able to put over his deal.

"Immediately I began shedding crocodile tears on the subject of the stamp, reciting some of the lesser events that had been commemorated, protesting that New Hampshire had been left out in the cold, and insisting that if the President is coming we should have the stamp which would honor him as well as the other 'Old Man.'

"It worked," the senator reported proudly. "The White House called Postmaster General Arthur Sommerfield, who 'thought it could be done.' ...A committee came down from New Hampshire to give the Post Office Department the background facts, and it looks like we're in."

THE DEMOCRATIC 84th Congress is off to a much better start than the Republican 83rd Congress record of two years ago on the number of bills passed. It's twice as good, in fact.

From Jan. 3 to Feb. 28, 1955, eight new laws were approved by the President. During the same period of 1953, while the new Republican majority was trying to get organized, only four bills were passed.

In the first two months of 1954, however, the Republicans checked off 12 new laws, 50 per cent better than this year.

Most important measures passed this year was the authorization for the President to defend Formosa with U. S. forces. Among the tricky-track bills that scooted through this year were an invitation to hold the 1960 Olympic games in Detroit and the correction of a clerical error in the Internal Revenue code which had abolished penalties for violation of the narcotics law.

COMMUNIST Czechoslovakia continues to provide Free Europe Press with plenty of laughs for recirculation behind the Iron Curtain to show up the workers' paradise. Here are two samples:

Straz Miru, published in Carlsbad, gives this clue on progress: "Upon being asked when construction began on a large house on which he was working, a mason replied, "I don't know. I have only been with this company for two years. I could find out by looking at the cornerstone, but it's under water."

Dikobraz, a weekly journal, noted in a recent issue that "J. R." was celebrating his fifth anniversary of the delivery of his car to a repair shop, from which it has not been returned. In 1953 a serviceman had told the owner the best way to start his car was to get it rolling from the top of a hill.

THERE'S A GROWING suspicion among highway experts in Washington that President Eisenhower's $101 billion road program has halted highway planning in many states. Some governors, state legislatures and state highway commissions have taken the attitude of, "Let's wait and see what Uncle Sam does before we spend any of our own money."

AMERICAN FEDERATION of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations are also going to have to get together on who's responsible for and who's sponsoring Labor Day.

In answer to a recent U. S. Chamber of Commerce questionnaire on special days, weeks and months observed in the United States, CIO disclaimed sponsorship for Labor Day and claimed it was Uncle Sam's responsibility. In response to the same query, AFL proudly asserted it had sponsored Labor Day for 71 years.

A WIDE OPEN and unblushing appeal for a return to old-time political spoils and patronage systems has been made by Assistant Secretary of Commerce James C. Worthy.

"I think that in our enthusiasm for extending the scope of the Civil Service merit system, we have come dangerously close to denying our political parties the sustenance they need to retain their health and vitality," he declared in a speech to personal administrators.

"Under the American political system," he continued, "some unifying and sustaining feature is necessary. Historically, this factor has been patronage. . . . Many difficulties of the Republican party today are directly traceable to what may best be described as 20 years of malnutrition."

Worry Over Squirrels Around Capital Adds to Quirks of Washington News

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 24—These are strange times in Washington—strange because, with the world in a worried mood, there are Democrats in Congress who seem to be worried only about trivialities.

Thus, one senator, a prominent Democrat, wants to raise a fund to build a fence so that the squirrels which, he says, were ordered off the White House grounds could return and the President still be able to practice golf on a smooth putting green. But it turns out that Mr. Eisenhower didn't know a thing about the squirrels until he read about them in the newspapers. Maybe groundkeepers of the White House lawns should consult congressmen hereafter before trying to keep animals of all kinds, large or small, out of the grounds.

THEN ANOTHER senator, also a prominent Democrat, says he wants to see an investigation begun to discover how the Yalta papers "leaked" to a certain newspaper — "The New York Times." But it turns out the documents were actually released on the same day last week to all the newspapers simultaneously. Nobody had a "scoop." So there was only a hypothetical "leak" after all.

But assuming that "The Times" or any other newspaper gets a "scoop" hereafter, is the reporter to be investigated and in his informant to be declared a "security risk?" One Democratic senator solemnly hands down a decision that whoever gave the Yalta papers to any reporter in advance is a "security risk."

"The Times" hasn't told who its informant was, but it wasn't the Secretary of State and the documents were never formally classified as secret, either. They were just pieces of historical literature. Messrs. Churchill, Byrnes and Stettinius have all published books with data in them from the Yalta records.

THE POT shouldn't call the kettle black. Senators regularly "leak" to the press information that they get from the executive branch of the government. Also, under the Truman administration, the most sensational "leaks" occurred, and nobody on the Republican side seemed to worry about the "scoops" the newspapers got.

One conspicuous instance, for example, was the "leak" that gave a reporter for "The New York Times" a copy of the transcript made at the meeting between President Truman and Gen. MacArthur at Wake Island in 1950 shortly after the Korean War began. A government stenographer was planted outside the door without the general's knowledge, and the notes were allowed to get into print without consulting the Far Eastern commander as to their accuracy. Dulles at least consulted Churchill before making public the Yalta papers.

NOBODY at the time thought there was a "security breach" in the publication of the Wake Island papers, though the ethics used in planting a stenographer clandestinely to eavesdrop were questioned by some critics.

Also, didn't President Truman himself "leak" to a friendly senator in October, 1952, a document written in 1947, revealing Gen. Eisenhower's recommendations while a member of the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff? Wasn't it the plain purpose to try to embarrass Mr. Eisenhower politically when he was a presidential candidate? All this was revealed just a few months ago in Senate debate.

AS FOR confidential informants, the newspapers could hardly print all the news articles they do each day if the persons who are the sources of their information did not rely on the reporters to withhold their names. The courts have for the most part upheld the right of the press to conceal confidential informants. Day by day government officials give out information with the explicit understanding that it isn't to be attributed to them. This happens all through the government—especially on Capitol Hill.

Yet today the American Civil Liberties Union, which has a tendency to uphold most of the "left wing" attacks on the security system, is demanding that all confidential informants of the FBI be disclosed in any personnel hearings inside the government. A concerted effort by various organizations is under way to try to accomplish this. Any one who presents any information that could be regarded as derogatory must be willing, if such a program is ever adopted, to have his name used in a formal proceeding, or presumably such information will not be available to the government.

This is about the cleverest scheme yet devised to break down the whole system of ferreting out subversives in the government. Yet there are sections of the press which insist on protecting confidential informants for their own use but would deny such a device to the government itself as a guide in employment practices. It's an era of strange contraditions.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Tucson, Arizona, March 24—This time of the year, George Spelvin, American, in his millions, receives notices of "stockholders' meetings" from the big corporations in which he has invested the remnant of money left him after many taxes, the expenses of existence, charities and luxuries.

Actually, the Spelvins never do attend such meetings and many of them do not even take the trouble to sign the proxies which the directors send them, soliciting permission to go ahead and use their own judgment.

There are a couple of interesting characters in New York named Lewis D. and John J. Gilbert who make a practice of attending as stockholders and needling the brass. I observe in the current notice from A T and T that the Gilberts intend to press a resolution on April 10 which would limit to $25,000 all future pensons to officers of the corporation. They say their purpose is to prevent "future $91,000 pensions or other pensions described in the last proxy statement as being potentially as high as $72,000."

I assume that the $91,000 pension is the one paid to Walter Gifford, who took down and served a hitch as Truman's ambassador in London and is now vegetating. Mr. Gifford certainly contributed a great deal to the development of A T and T and its subsidiaries, altogether a vital "facility" as the New Dealer jargonians called things which they wanted arbitrary power to seize under the pretext of national emergency. He had to stand off a malicious attempt of the Roosevelt cabal to dissipate the company as an illegal monopoly after he turned down Jimmy's solicitation of A T and T's insurance business. That took nerve and character.

Ham Fish, of all people, and he a genuine Republican, wrangled a personal introduction of the bald eaglet of the dynasty to Gifford and frankly admonished Walter in Jimmy's presence that it would do no harm "to have a friend at court." That is Ham's own version of his very words. This was weird conduct by a Republican who hated our leader's tripes and vice versa, but Ham said he took Jimmy in because Baldy had gone to Harvard, too. The anti-trust suit cost A T and T more than a million and the interruption of normal progressive business and loss of efficiency imposed a further penalty that nobody could calculate.

There is no sense arguing whether Gifford earned his big pension. It is a fixed reality and that is all there is to it. However, these New York Gilberts are right as far as they go and I would gladly encourage them if I were sure of their ultimate purpose. I don't know enough to commend them to you but if you want to inquire, their address is 1165 Park avenue, New York, 28.

I object to their proposal because it does not go far enough. None of the corporation executives really deserve any pension whatever. The Phelps-Dodge system, called a deferred profit-sharing plan, which is just euphony disguising nothing, does not pay off if consolidated net income falls below $2 a share. The company contributes 3 per cent of this net income or 10 per cent of the aggregate salaries of the salaried beneficiaries, "whichever is less."

But my position is that all such people are square with the board on their final pay-days. They deserve nothing thereafter. If they are underpaid, let them say so. After all, to be blunt and honest, they have the power to set their own salaries. And they do. But it has become general practice to set these salaries below their actual worth and rig all kinds of deferred-compensation gags so that they can duck some of their income tax burden. Let them save up for their own old age. In all discussions of this dodge, they all frankly state that their taxes in the upper brackets are practically confiscatory. Sure they are. But it is the same with a lot of other people. And if we make a privileged caste of these high-salaried executives, they will not take their part in the fight to reduce the income tax. They will sit back and laugh at our misery. If it hurts them as much as it hurts others, they will make common cause with the rest. And, because they plainly are, for the most part, unusually intelligent, diligent men, they could help a great deal.

I won a few shares of a prosperous company called Freeport Sulphur. I bought it on a tip and took a chance of losing my taw. The management must be good, for the stock has gone up but I am paying the executives all the way from about $24,000 to $106,000 a year and they must think I am doing all right by them as they have the power to kick the ante whenever they want to. But here in this proxy statement I find a little table which reminds me of a leper exhibiting his sores. The table shows that the poor fellow who draws $106,000 a year from me is cut down to $49,510 by the federal, income tax. Well, I couldn't care less, having troubles of my own. But he and the rest of them have let me in on the delicious privilege of paying them pensions ranging from $17,693 to $52,500 for life after 65. That $52,500 is for the president who now gets the $106,000, gross. It is more than he has left after taxes today, although, of course, the pension will be taxed, too.

These men "contribute" to their pensions but they ought to pay it all. They have no more right to a pension from me than I have to a pension from them. Neither has the day-wage help. We Spelvins work for our money and if the federal social security is good enough for Spelvin it is good enough for everyone else.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Does the American laboring man live in a "workers' paradise"? If not, what the heck is it?

Answer that one, neighbor!

The only gripe he has is that our good and kindly Government takes away too much of his take-home pay.

Mr. Hutton

Now the slogan in Russia and its "captive" countries is — "everything is for the workman." But the guy doesn't own his own home. Here it is possible for all to acquire a home — with deed and title attached.

It has been stated that 57% of our families own their homes. But in Russia, the Kremlin boys tell their people where to live — and often an entire family lives in one tiny room.

The Kremlin also tells its people that "in America the worker is exploited by capitalists." Yep, right out of the Communist's mouth comes the double talk, wise cracks. It is planned that way.

Do you know what else we have? Only about 75% of the world's automobiles, bathtubs, telephones and beauty shops. The girls know about those; if lost, they'd go nuts!

Further, the American workman, with most of the world's best machines and tools, gets inevitable results.

Now the only way to give the Kremlin boys the "ha, ha," is to keep our country strong enough to remain free, and free enough to remain strong.

So it's up to you, Mr. Workman, to use the machines and tools, supplied by the so-called "dirty capitalists," to the best possible advantage.

Easter Island Gets New Treatment

Captain Easy, you will note, in the Leslie Turner cartoon by that name in The Freeman, recently landed on Easter Island, and is encountering some mystery there.

Long known for its mysteries, the island, about 1,000 miles west of Chile, was, a few years ago, the subject of some research and a book by Dr. Werner Wolff, noted psychologist of Bard College.

An expert on symbolism, Dr. Wolff made a study of huge statues scattered on a section of the island. They have long been a puzzle to scientists and none has accounted for their being there.

MANY OF THE STONE pieces are 20 to 68 feet high and some weigh 100,000 pounds.

Dr. Wolff's book, "Island of Death," presents the belief that the island represents a culture established not later than 800 A.D., with a strong suggestion that it was based on Egyptian civilizations.

It has been estimated that if the statues had been moved by men it would require as many as 5,000 to budge some of them. Dr. Wolff suggested that since two volcanoes on the island are known to have erupted after arrival of first settlers, perhaps the partially finished statues were thrown from the mountains and finished after landing on the ground below.

In a dramatic side-by-side test on Long Island, two cars were driven at 30 miles per hour. At the signal both drivers stopped their cars as quickly as possible. The test was repeated again and again; the measurements were taken. The result: The car with the sensational new SAF-O-MATIC brake pedal stopped 15 to 40 feet sooner than car "B" every time!

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Does the American laboring man live in a "workers' paradise"? If not, what the heck is it?

Answer that one, neighbor!

The only gripe he has is that our good and kindly Government takes away too much of his take-home pay.

Mr. Button

Now the slogan in Russia and its "captive" countries is — "everything is for the workman." But the guy doesn't own his own home. Here it is possible for all to acquire a home — with deed and title attached.

It has been stated that 57% of our families own their homes. But in Russia, the Kremlin boys tell their people where to live — and often an entire family lives in one tiny room.

The Kremlin also tells its people that "in America the worker is exploited by capitalists." Yep, right out of the Communist's mouth comes the double talk, wise cracks. It is planned that way.

Do you know what else we have? Only about 75% of the world's automobiles, bathtubs, telephones and beauty shops. The girls know about those; if lost, they'd go nuts!

Further, the American workman, with most of the world's best machines and tools, gets inevitable results.

Now the only way to give the Kremlin boys the "ha, ha," is to keep our country strong enough to remain free, and free enough to remain strong.

So it's up to you, Mr. Workman, to use the machines and tools, supplied by the so-called "dirty capitalists," to the best possible advantage.

Civil Service to Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Ulster Chapter of the Civil Service Employes Association will be held March 28 at 8 p. m. at the White Eagle Hall, Delaware avenue. Thomas J. Finnerty, Jr., and Arthur Simmons, mayor-elect of Saugerties, will be guests.

Ice-Covered Area

Glacier ice covers about 5,800,000 square miles of the land area of the world, 98 per cent of this total being located in Antarctica and Greenland.

Easter Island Gets New Treatment

Captain Easy, you will note, in the Leslie Turner cartoon by that name in The Freeman, recently landed on Easter Island, and is encountering some mystery there.

Long known for its mysteries, the island, about 1,000 miles west of Chile, was, a few years ago, the subject of some research and a book by Dr. Werner Wolff, noted psychologist of Bard College.

An expert on symbolism, Dr. Wolff made a study of huge statues scattered on a section of the island. They have long been a puzzle to scientists and none has accounted for their being there.

MANY OF THE STONE pieces are 20 to 68 feet high and some weigh 100,000 pounds.

Dr. Wolff's book, "Island of Death," presents the belief that the island represents a culture established not later than 800 A.D., with a strong suggestion that it was based on Egyptian civilizations.

It has been estimated that if the statues had been moved by men it would require as many as 5,000 to budge some of them. Dr. Wolff suggested that since two volcanoes on the island are known to have erupted after arrival of first settlers, perhaps the partially finished statues were thrown from the mountains and finished after landing on the ground below.

Out in Hollywood, they've long ago dropped Plot No. 673—the one about the understudy who makes good. It's a corny story and it never happens. But this year it's happened twice on Broadway and two lucky girls who stepped out of the wings into the happy spotlight are Mary Fickett and Gretchen Wyler. It couldn't have happened to two nicer gals.

For a couple of years, Mary was understudy — she prefers "standby" — for Deborah Kerr and then Joan Fontaine, the two who played the lead in the success, "Tea and Sympathy." When Miss Fontaine left the show, the producers considered getting another big name (they were talking about June Allyson, Wendy Barrie and Betty Furness) but happily settled on the standby.

Gretchen started out in the dancing chorus of "Silk Stockings," the new musical hit. She was also second understudy to Yvonne Adair, playing the part of a sexy movie star. The first understudy quit. Then Miss Adair became ill, and Gretchen took over the part during the out-of-town tryout. Just before the Broadway opening, Miss Adair announced she was going to have a baby, so the production signed Gretchen. And she opened to raves.

What has this meant to the girls? Naturally, both are extremely happy. Naturally, because this means more money, being seen for future roles, and, most important, that elusive thing called self-satisfaction.

Mary is the daughter of the late Homer Fickett, who was a famous radio director (shows like March of Time, Cavalcade of America, Theatre Guild of the Air). "I wanted to be an actress since I was four," she said. "I never wanted to be a nurse or a fireman."

She had a taste of stardom first when Joan Fontaine was ill and she had to go on. "I was so jittery that first night," she recalls. "Riding to the theatre I thought of the silliest things—like why didn't I wash my hair last night."

And so two understudies are now on the road to glory. Hollywood, please note.

Albert Hague, composer of "Plain and Fancy," was born in Germany. When he first came here he was drafted immediately. He tried desperately to Americanize himself. The signal that he finally succeeded came "when I woke up one morning and realized that I'd had a dream all in English."

Phoenicia Vols Answer 25 Calls During Past Year

During the past year the Phoenicia Fire District answered 25 calls—10 buildings, 10 chimney fires and five grass fires.

The district also held 17 fire drills, it was reported by Charles Gustafson of Mt. Tremper, secretary, board of fire commissioners.

TWO SEVERE fires taxed the ability of the men and equipment to the limit, one a large barn next to the Villa Hermosa, a large boarding house near Boiceville, which was burned to the ground, and the other a fire which gutted Kahil's Lodge on Route 212 in the Woodstock District. The latter response was made on a mutual aid call. The building was a total loss.

Gustafson pointed out that the volunteers, the first to arrive, performed in fine style, pouring tons of water on the flames, making it possible to save other adjacent property.

Chief Mervale Jones paid tribute to the work of the volunteers during the year, saying that they performed like "veterans."

THE DISTRICT has three companies: Whitney Hose Company, Phoenicia, with two trucks; Shandaken Allaben Hose Company, Shandaken, with one truck, and the newly formed Onteora Hose Company, Mt. Tremper, all under the command of Chief Jones, First Assistant Sidney Ford of Shandaken and Second Assistant Bernard Brinks of Mt. Tremper.

Chief Jones said new equipment was expected soon which would provide the district with a fine fire-fighting fleet. This equipment consists of two new trucks purchased last year, a 500-gallon pumper for Phoenicia and a 1,000-gallon combination tanker and pumper for Mt. Tremper.

THE BOARD of Commissioners consists of Martin Johnson of Chichester, chairman; Gustafson, secretary; Frank P. Platz of Shandaken, treasurer; Ralph Yerry of Shandaken, George Marionor of Allaben and George Fircther of Phoenicia.

Out in Hollywood, they've long ago dropped Plot No. 673—the one about the understudy who makes good. It's a corny story and it never happens. But this year it's happened twice on Broadway and two lucky girls who stepped out of the wings into the happy spotlight are Mary Fickett and Gretchen Wyler. It couldn't have happened to two nicer gals.

For a couple of years, Mary was understudy — she prefers "standby" — for Deborah Kerr and then Joan Fontaine, the two who played the lead in the success, "Tea and Sympathy." When Miss Fontaine left the show, the producers considered getting another big name (they were talking about June Allyson, Wendy Barrie and Betty Furness) but happily settled on the standby.

Gretchen started out in the dancing chorus of "Silk Stockings," the new musical hit. She was also second understudy to Yvonne Adair, playing the part of a sexy movie star. The first understudy quit. Then Miss Adair became ill, and Gretchen took over the part during the out-of-town tryout. Just before the Broadway opening, Miss Adair announced she was going to have a baby, so the production signed Gretchen. And she opened to raves.

What has this meant to the girls? Naturally, both are extremely happy. Naturally, because this means more money, being seen for future roles, and, most important, that elusive thing called self-satisfaction.

Mary is the daughter of the late Homer Fickett, who was a famous radio director (shows like March of Time, Cavalcade of America, Theatre Guild of the Air). "I wanted to be an actress since I was four," she said. "I never wanted to be a nurse or a fireman."

She had a taste of stardom first when Joan Fontaine was ill and she had to go on. "I was so jittery that first night," she recalls. "Riding to the theatre I thought of the silliest things—like why didn't I wash my hair last night."

And so two understudies are now on the road to glory. Hollywood, please note.

Phoenicia Vols Answer 25 Calls During Past Year

During the past year the Phoenicia Fire District answered 25 calls—10 buildings, 10 chimney fires and five grass fires.

The district also held 17 fire drills, it was reported by Charles Gustafson of Mt. Tremper, secretary, board of fire commissioners.

TWO SEVERE fires taxed the ability of the men and equipment to the limit, one a large barn next to the Villa Hermosa, a large boarding house near Boiceville, which was burned to the ground, and the other a fire which gutted Kahil's Lodge on Route 212 in the Woodstock District. The latter response was made on a mutual aid call. The building was a total loss.

Gustafson pointed out that the volunteers, the first to arrive, performed in fine style, pouring tons of water on the flames, making it possible to save other adjacent property.

Chief Mervale Jones paid tribute to the work of the volunteers during the year, saying that they performed like "veterans."

THE DISTRICT has three companies: Whitney Hose Company, Phoenicia, with two trucks; Shandaken Allaben Hose Company, Shandaken, with one truck, and the newly formed Onteora Hose Company, Mt. Tremper, all under the command of Chief Jones, First Assistant Sidney Ford of Shandaken and Second Assistant Bernard Brinks of Mt. Tremper.

Chief Jones said new equipment was expected soon which would provide the district with a fine fire-fighting fleet. This equipment consists of two new trucks purchased last year, a 500-gallon pumper for Phoenicia and a 1,000-gallon combination tanker and pumper for Mt. Tremper.

THE BOARD of Commissioners consists of Martin Johnson of Chichester, chairman; Gustafson, secretary; Frank P. Platz of Shandaken, treasurer; Ralph Yerry of Shandaken, George Marionor of Allaben and George Firether of Phoenicia.

Annual Dickering Is Due For Labor and Management

By SAM DAWSON

New York, March 25 (AP)—Labor and management are girding for the fast approaching big season for battles over wage hikes and for strikes and threats of strikes.

Many regard the labor factor as one of the chief uncertainties—perhaps next to war—on the industrial horizon today.

Outcome of the key struggles, some say, could hold the answer to whether the present business upswing will continue without more than a seasonal break in the summer.

AUTO COMPANIES start wage talks in a few days. Steel, electronics, glass, meat packing and shipping workers have contracts up for negotiation before hot weather. John L. Lewis is keeping quiet but the coal industry could still hear from him.

In the summer, farm equipment, aluminum and copper contracts come up. Other big electrical equipment manufacturers will talk with their unions before fall.

What the big industries and the top corporations do about wage scales often sets the national pattern into which smaller concerns fit themselves as best they can.

DEMANDS FOR a guaranteed annual wage will make headlines in the weeks just ahead. Auto workers, especially, say they want assurance of year-around pay to supplant present practices, which they describe as layoffs when business is slack and overtime when sales are booming.

Automation is another word you'll be hearing about during the wage talks. Automation means the increasing tendency to supplant manual labor with machines—a trend which started 150 years ago with the industrial revolution.

IF CARRIED to its ultimate, automation could bring the completely automatic factory with labor involved only in making the machines, in watching them operate, and in maintaining and replacing them.

Union leaders fear that will spell unemployment. Management says that, on the contrary, more machines have always ended in meaning more goods, more jobs and a higher standard of living.

THE COST of living will be less of a bargaining point this year. During the inflationary spurts of earlier postwar years, unions asked for wage hikes to help their members try to catch up with rising prices. Many tied their pay scales to the fluctuations of the Bureau of Labor Statistics' consumer price index.

This spring, BLS reports, the cost of living is a little lower than a year ago. A factory worker's average weekly earnings after taxes, on the other hand, have gone up five per cent in the year.

This is due to an average pay scale hike of five cents an hour, helped out by longer work weeks and in some instances the return to overtime pay.

CORPORATE PROFITS, however, are likely to be the basis for some wage demands. Thanks to tax relief, and to the fruits of newer and better equipment (automation), many companies have turned in as good or better profits on lower sales volume. In other words, they've bettered their break-even points. Union leaders are talking much about this.

A shorter work week may also be among labor demands. Union leaders say this would help offset the greater role of the machine in the modern factory and would spread jobs and help cut down unemployment. Management says a shorter week would hike operating costs and build up pressure for further price hikes, thus sending up the cost of living.

Two Ask State Lend Money to Private Builders

Albany, March 25 (AP)—Two lawmakers from New York city propose that the state lend private builders 50 million dollars to finance construction of more housing projects for middle-income families.

If approved by the Legislature the bi-partisan plan would be put before the voters in a referendum next fall. The money would come from a 200-million-dollar housing bond issue approved at the last election.

Republican Sen. MacNeil Mitchell of Manhattan and Assemblyman Alfred Lama, Brooklyn Democrat, yesterday urged adoption of legislation to permit the loans.

Mitchell and Lama proposed authorizing "limited profit" housing companies. The ventures would be entitled to a return on their investiment of no more than six per cent. They could rent only to persons in the middle-income bracket.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS in the Legislature:

1. The Senate passed and sent to the Assembly a bill to limit permits for mining on state land.

2. The Assembly passed and sent to the Senate a bill forbidding issuance of a motor vehicle operator's license to a person who had epilepsy (Assemblyman Michael G. Rice, D.-Queens).

Gov. Harriman signed a bill authorizing him to enter compacts with other states to arrange the return of runaway juveniles. The measure was introduced by Assemblyman Elisha T. Barrett, R.-Suffolk).

Today, the governor signed a bill that extends until June 30, 1956, a law providing for disqualifying applicants for public office and removing public officers who, in time of emergency, are considered dangerous to the national welfare and security.

Can You Recall Your Own Thoughts in Disobedience?

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Our name is Ted. We are eight, and involved in a series of actions that will end in disobedience and punishment.

In the garage, we're hunting for a hockey puck we've mislaid. Failing to find it, we are edging past the car which Father has forbidden us to "fool around." We disobey. We try the car's door. Discovering it's unlocked, we slip into the driver's seat. After a moment, we switch on the lights and ignition. . . .

Sitting there in the dark, we're roused by our mother's voice calling us to supper. In haste, we switch off the ignition—and forget the lights.

They betray our disobedience to Father. Angry and impatient, he sends us to bed with a minimum of supper.

He doesn't understand our disobedience. How could he? We don't understand it ourselves.

These were the thoughts behind it:

There in the garage an hour ago, our lost hockey puck reminded us of another lost possession. We remembered the Scout knife we left in the car's front seat last Sunday. So we tried its door. Once in the driver's seat, we needed light to search for the knife. And as we switched it on, we touched the ignition switch.

We turned it, our action pressed by a thousand unformed thoughts that as a child we did not even know we were thinking. Some of them ran like this:

"They won't know what's happened when they find I can drive this car. I could keep her on the road at a hundred miles an hour. I mustn't touch the starter, though. How big I feel. Look at me here with my hands on this wheel. What's the difference between me and a man? I wish they could see me here in this seat turning this wheel so easy. But I mustn't touch the starter. . . . "

These thoughts were the essence of our disobedience. But as they were those of inarticulate childhood, unrealized, floating vague as shadows just under the surface of our minds, we could not share them with Father. Under his anger, all we could do was to be silent, feeling that something important was not perceived, but unable to make it seen.

Can you recapture the thoughts behind your disobedience?

They are the thoughts behind that of your own children.

This column is not an appeal to condoning children's disobedience. It's a suggestion that the difference between quiet and wrathful correction is the difference between people who can recapture the thoughts of childhood—and those who won't.

County Exceeds Legion Quota

Ulster county has exceeded its quota in the 1955 American Legion membership campaign, it was reported today by Thomas Bohan, county membership chairman.

Bohan said the county quota of 2,246 members was reached by Monday night, when the county Legion meeting was held at Saugerties. At that time, seven of the county's 14 posts had reached the 100 per cent mark or better.

Lloyd Post No. 193 achieved the highest percentage gain in the county, reporting 193 per cent of its quota.

OTHER POSTS exceeding quotas as of Monday: Town of Esopus Post, 141 per cent; Woodstock, 117 per cent; Sullivan-Shafer, 110 per cent; Olive Memorial, 110 per cent; Lamouree-Hackett, 106 per cent, and Rose-Sheely, 100 per cent.

Bohan also reported gains in membership in the other seven posts, and expressed confidence that each will exceed its quota.

Achievement of county quotas by the American Legion's birthday month, March, was asked by National Commander Seaborn P. Collins.

Worcester, Mass., boasts it has 700 manufacturing concerns, 283 of them started since World War 2.

Retort Courteous

Omaha (AP) — A five-year-old neighbor lad was visiting a neighbor woman while she was cleaning cupboards. She found an old wooden spoon which she gave him and the following dialogue ensued: Boy: "I'd like something to eat with the spoon." Housewife: "What would you like?" Boy: "I can't ask for anything to eat because that isn't polite. I'll eat whatever you give me." He got a big helping of ice cream.

Two Ask State Lend Money to Private Builders

Albany, March 25 (AP)—Two lawmakers from New York city propose that the state lend private builders 50 million dollars to finance construction of more housing projects for middle-income families.

If approved by the Legislature the bi-partisan plan would be put before the voters in a referendum next fall. The money would come from a 200-million-dollar housing bond issue approved at the last election.

Republican Sen. MacNeil Mitchell of Manhattan and Assemblyman Alfred Lama, Brooklyn Democrat, yesterday urged adoption of legislation to permit the loans.

Mitchell and Lama proposed authorizing "limited profit" housing companies. The ventures would be entitled to a return on their investment of no more than six per cent. They could rent only to persons in the middle-income bracket.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS in the Legislature:

1. The Senate passed and sent to the Assembly a bill to limit permits for mining on state land.

2. The Assembly passed and sent to the Senate a bill forbidding issuance of a motor vehicle operator's license to a person who had epilepsy (Assemblyman Michael G. Rice, D.-Queens).

Gov. Harriman signed a bill authorizing him to enter compacts with other states to arrange the return of runaway juveniles. The measure was introduced by Assemblyman Elisha T. Barrett, R.-Suffolk).

Today, the governor signed a bill that extends until June 30, 1956, a law providing for disqualifying applicants for public office and removing public officers who, in time of emergency, are considered dangerous to the national welfare and security.

Can You Recall Your Own Thoughts in Disobedience?

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Our name is Ted. We are eight, and involved in a series of actions that will end in disobedience and punishment.

In the garage, we're hunting for a hockey puck we've mislaid. Failing to find it, we are edging past the car which Father has forbidden us to "fool around." We disobey. We try the car's door. Discovering it's unlocked, we slip into the driver's seat. After a moment, we switch on the lights and ignition. . . .

Sitting there in the dark, we're roused by our mother's voice calling us to supper. In haste, we switch off the ignition—and forget the lights.

They betray our disobedience to Father. Angry and impatient, he sends us to bed with a minimum of supper.

He doesn't understand our disobedience. How could he? We don't understand it ourselves.

These were the thoughts behind it:

There in the garage an hour ago, our lost hockey puck reminded us of another lost possession. We remembered the Scout knife we left in the car's front seat last Sunday. So we tried its door. Once in the driver's seat, we needed light to search for the knife. And as we switched it on, we touched the ignition switch.

We turned it, our action pressed by a thousand unformed thoughts that as a child we did not even know we were thinking. Some of them ran like this:

"They won't know what's happened when they find I can drive this car. I could keep her on the road at a hundred miles an hour. I mustn't touch the starter, though. How big I feel. Look at me here with my hands on this wheel. What's the difference between me and a man? I wish they could see me here in this seat turning this wheel so easy. But I mustn't touch the starter. . . . "

These thoughts were the essence of our disobedience. But as they were those of inarticulate childhood, unrealized, floating vague as shadows just under the surface of our minds, we could not share them with Father. Under his anger, all we could do was to be silent, feeling that something important was not perceived, but unable to make it seen.

Can you recapture the thoughts behind your disobedience?

They are the thoughts behind that of your own children.

This column is not an appeal to condoning children's disobedience. It's a suggestion that the difference between quiet and wrathful correction is the difference between people who can recapture the thoughts of childhood—and those who won't.

County Exceeds Legion Quota

Ulster county has exceeded its quota in the 1955 American Legion membership campaign, it was reported today by Thomas Bohan, county membership chairman.

Bohan said the county quota of 2,246 members was reached by Monday night, when the county Legion meeting was held at Saugerties. At that time, seven of the county's 14 posts had reached the 100 per cent mark or better.

Lloyd Post No. 193 achieved the highest percentage gain in the county, reporting 193 per cent of its quota.

OTHER POSTS exceeding quotas as of Monday: Town of Esopus Post, 141 per cent; Woodstock, 117 per cent; Sullivan-Shafer, 110 per cent; Olive Memorial, 110 per cent; Lamouree-Hackett, 106 per cent, and Rose-Sheely, 100 per cent.

Bohan also reported gains in membership in the other seven posts, and expressed confidence that each will exceed its quota.

Achievement of county quotas by the American Legion's birthday month, March, was asked by National Commander Seaborn P. Collins.

Worcester, Mass., boasts it has 700 manufacturing concerns, 283 of them started since World War 2.

Omaha (AP) — A five-year-old neighbor lad was visiting a neighbor woman while she was cleaning cupboards. She found an old wooden spoon which she gave him and the following dialogue ensued: Boy: "I'd like something to eat with the spoon." Housewife: "What would you like?" Boy: "I can't ask for anything to eat because that isn't polite. I'll eat whatever you give me." He got a big helping of ice cream.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., March 24—While following the Fulbright Committee I wonder why it confines its investigation to the stock market.

THE REAL BULL market of the past two years has been in housing. In 1929 the public could buy stocks on a ten per cent margin; but to buy a house required a thirty per cent margin. Now the reverse is true. The public must put up a sixty per cent margin to buy stocks; but can buy a house on a five per cent margin, or less.

Furthermore, while the government is discouraging investment in American industries, it is offering all kinds of inducements to get people to borrow in order to buy houses. The program does not make sense. It smells badly of cheap politics. As a result, the next financial panic will be a housing collapse—not a stock market collapse. With it there will be uncovered scandals, corruption, and untold losses; while Wall Street will come through with a clean slate.

I feel that the suggestion of Professor John Kenneth Galbraith of Harvard College for 100% margins indicates ignorance of business customs and ethics. Today probably 85% of all those employed in industry are working for companies whose securities must be sold through the New York Stock Exchange. This means that, to issue new stock to carry out extension or improvement programs, purchasers of these stocks must be able to borrow thereon both from Stock Exchange firms and from banks.

REQUIRING A 100% margin in case of war, when materials and manpower must be saved, is a wise procedure. To do so in times of peace, and when the country is facing unemployment, is foolhardy. Unless we are to get into a critical shooting war with China, there is no need for 100% margins. We already have top-heavy stockpiles of both materials and foods. Therefore, I suggest that people again be encouraged to "Buy American Industry" in order to help employment and hold up prosperity.

Let us assume there is enough "steam in the boiler" to extend prosperity throughout 1956 and safely re-elect Eisenhower if he chooses to run again. Notwithstanding the Administration's success in "nipping in the bud" the 1954 decline, it is very skeptical of any large-scale attempts to hold employment and prices up artificially. Certainly Roosevelt tried everything from "revaluating the dollars" to "raking leaves," and none of those medicines worked.

Only World War 2 turned the scales and brought back full employment with price recoveries. Perhaps even World War 3 would not accomplish this again, with fixed prices, heavy taxes on profits, and other controls. Perhaps the Russians would rather avoid war and throw us into a depression. No one now knows. It is, however, certain that some day if we all "go through the wringer," there could be a bad mess for a while. I hope the Fulbright Committee will discuss some constructive phase of the business and employment outlook in its final report. Both Senator Fulbright and his much-advertised investigation will soon be forgotten, as far as the stock market is concerned.

THE ENTIRE investigation has smelled of politics from the first. Both parties are surprised at the action of the stock market. The Republicans are blaming it all on the Democrats, claiming that it shows what would happen to business if the Democrats were in control.

The Democrats claim that the Republicans have been pushing the market down in order to bring an end to the investigation. I understand that other prominent Democrats blame the market slump on Dulles' speech, which suggested an ultimatum to China. This does not seem reasonable to me in view of the action of the airplane stocks and the rails, which should prosper from further China troubles. My advice to readers is: Don't sell in a panicky market; don't buy more now, at present high prices; (3) work harder at your own regular business and trust President Eisenhower to run the United States.

Even Experts Will Make Some Errors

South cannot make the contract of four spades in today's hand if the defenders play perfectly. However, even the best players make mistakes, or guess wrong, or can be flummoxed into the wrong line of play.

When today's hand was played, South nudged West in the wrong direction and thus made an unmakable contract.

West opened the king of clubs, and South dropped the nine in a rather weak attempt to coax a club continuation out of West. East had very clearly played the deuce, however, so that West was not to be lured into continuing the clubs.

West looked around for the best shift. There was certainly nothing attractive about diamonds, but the hearts looked rather promising. Hence West shifted to the queen of hearts.

It's pretty clear that a shift to diamonds would have been better. East would have taken the ace of diamonds and would have returned a club. Three clubs and a diamond would defeat the contract in short order.

South was well aware of the true danger. He was pretty sure that West didn't have the ace of diamonds, since West had already indicated the ace-king of clubs and the queen-jack of hearts yet had never taken action during the auction. How was South to wriggle out of this tight spot?

South played a low heart from the dummy on West's queen. East played low, and South played the deuce. West saw that his queen had held the trick and didn't look too closely at the cards on the trick. He was sure that his partner had the ace of hearts, so he led the jack of hearts.

This was just what South had been waiting for. He won with the ace of hearts, took the ace of spades, entered dummy with the eight of spades, and led the king of hearts to discard the singleton king of diamonds. Declarer then led the queen of diamonds through East.

It didn't matter what East did. He actually put up his ace, and South ruffed. South now got to dummy with the queen of spades and discarded two clubs on the jack and the ten of diamonds. Declarer cheerfully gave up a club at the end, losing only two clubs and one heart.

It's pretty clear that a shift to diamonds would have been better. East would have taken the ace of diamonds and would have returned a club. Three clubs and a diamond would defeat the contract in short order.

South was well aware of the true danger. He was pretty sure that West didn't have the ace of diamonds, since West had already indicated the ace-king of clubs and the queen-jack of hearts yet had never taken action during the auction. How was South to wriggle out of this tight spot?

South played a low heart from the dummy on West's queen. East played low, and South played the deuce. West saw that his queen had held the trick and didn't look too closely at the cards on the trick. He was sure that his partner had the ace of hearts, so he led the jack of hearts.

This was just what South had been waiting for. He won with the ace of hearts, took the ace of spades, entered dummy with the eight of spades, and led the king of hearts to discard the singleton king of diamonds. Declarer then led the queen of diamonds through East.

It didn't matter what East did. He actually put up his ace, and South ruffed. South now got to dummy with the queen of spades and discarded two clubs on the jack and the ten of diamonds. Declarer cheerfully gave up a club at the end, losing only two clubs and one heart.

New Paltz Players To Present Comedy Tonight, Saturday

The New Paltz Players will present The Lady's Not for Burning, comedy by Christopher Fry, tonight and Saturday at 8:30 o'clock in the college auditorium.

Taking part in the production will be Norman Silverman, Evelyn Kluger, Bernice DeLessio, John Lisanick, Jacqueline Kirk and Joseph Graziano. Others in the play, which is being directed by Vera R. Irwin, director of drama, are Ivan Ferguson, Carl Cioppa, Robert Walsh, Charles Hauer and Cass Baker.

The Lady's Not for Burning tells the story of Thomas Mendip, a soldier weary of the world, who comes to court demanding to be hanged. The judge, preoccupied with a prior case of burning a girl accused of witchcraft, tries to get rid of him. But the soldier will not be put off, which is fortunate, for the witch turns out to be young and beautiful, and by no means super-natural as the villagers would think. Mendip chivalrously continues his efforts to get himself hanged, in the hope of distracting the witch hunters.

The production is open to the public. Tickets are available at the door.

New Paltz Players To Present Comedy Tonight, Saturday

The New Paltz Players will present The Lady's Not for Burning, comedy by Christopher Fry, tonight and Saturday at 8:30 o'clock in the college auditorium.

Taking part in the production will be Norman Silverman, Evelyn Kluger, Bernice DeLessio, John Lisanick, Jacqueline Kirk and Joseph Graziano. Others in the play, which is being directed by Vera R. Irwin, director of drama, are Ivan Ferguson, Carl Cioppa, Robert Walsh, Charles Hauer and Cass Baker.

The Lady's Not for Burning tells the story of Thomas Mendip, a soldier weary of the world, who comes to court demanding to be hanged. The judge, preoccupied with a prior case of burning a girl accused of witchcraft, tries to get rid of him. But the soldier will not be put off, which is fortunate, for the witch turns out to be young and beautiful, and by no means super-natural as the villagers would think. Mendip chivalrously continues his efforts to get himself hanged, in the hope of distracting the witch hunters.

The production is open to the public. Tickets are available at the door.

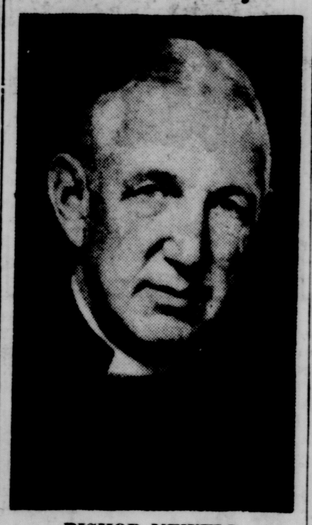
Bishop to Speak At West Hurley



BISHOP NEWELL

Bishop Frederick Buckley Newell will speak at a special preaching service at the West Hurley Methodist Church Sunday, March 27, at 8 p. m. In announcing this service, the Rev. John W. Grob, pastor of the church, said this service is the first in a spring series called A Great Preaching Mission. The aim of this series is to bring to the area some of the most outstanding preachers available.

Bishop Newell is the resident bishop of the New York area of the Methodist Church. In this capacity he succeeds Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, who is now bishop of the Washington area. The New York area includes parts of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and all of Vermont. In addition, Bishop Newell is chairman of the Methodist Committee for Overseas Relief, which administers $1,000,000 annually.

BISHOP NEWELL'S service in the church before he was elected a bishop of the Methodist Church in June 1952 was largely in the city of New York. He served as pastor there; from 1930 to 1952 he was executive secretary of the New York City Society, which is the home missionary agency of metropolitan Methodism. It has responsibility for foreign language churches, community centers, and other service projects. Bishop Newell has written numerous books and reports on city work in the Protestant home missionary field. He has made extensive studies of the new trend in American life, particularly as they affect shifting populations and changing communities in the metropolitan centers.

The parish, which is sponsoring Bishop Newell's coming to the area, includes the West Hurley, Glenford and Ashokan Methodist Churches. The next preacher which the Great Preaching Mission will bring to the area is Dr. Franz Hildebrandt, visiting professor in theology at Drew University.

Red Cross Got News for Parents

"Imagine how we felt with our son in a hospital so far away, and we could not find out how he was. But when we asked the Red Cross to assist, they got through right away and we were greatly relieved."

That is the way Mrs. Earl O. Terwilliger of Ulster Park referred to the Red Cross service which was rendered by the Ulster County Chapter a few weeks ago.

At the time Pfc. Robert Terwilliger was serving in the armed forces in Okinawa. He was ill in a hospital and his parents had received no word as to his condition.

"NATURALLY WE WERE concerned as to just how ill he was. We tried to get in touch with him but were only told he was in a hospital. When we could get no further information we sought the assistance of the Red Cross," said Mrs. Terwilliger.

"They got in touch with him right away and we learned he was not seriously ill," she concluded.

This is one of many similar instances where Red Cross has relieved the anxiety of parents of men in the service.

WHEN MRS. TERWILLIGER notified the Ulster County Chapter the Red Cross field representative half way around the world was contacted through military channels and within a few hours the report was made by telegraph and that information was given Mr. and Mrs. Terwilliger.

Three weeks ago Pfc. Terwilliger was discharged from service and returned home.

Bishop to Speak At West Hurley

BISHOP NEWELL

Bishop Frederick Buckley Newell will speak at a special preaching service at the West Hurley Methodist Church Sunday, March 27, at 8 p. m. In announcing this service, the Rev. John W. Grob, pastor of the church, said this service is the first in a spring series called A Great Preaching Mission. The aim of this series is to bring to the area some of the most outstanding preachers available.

Bishop Newell is the resident bishop of the New York area of the Methodist Church. In this capacity he succeeds Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, who is now bishop of the Washington area. The New York area includes parts of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and all of Vermont. In addition, Bishop Newell is chairman of the Methodist Committee for Overseas Relief, which administers $1,000,000 annually.

BISHOP NEWELL'S service in the church before he was elected a bishop of the Methodist Church in June 1952 was largely in the city of New York. He served as pastor there; from 1930 to 1952 he was executive secretary of the New York City Society, which is the home missionary agency of metropolitan Methodism. It has responsibility for foreign language churches, community centers, and other service projects. Bishop Newell has written numerous books and reports on city work in the Protestant home missionary field. He has made extensive studies of the new trend in American life, particularly as they affect shifting populations and changing communities in the metropolitan centers.

The parish, which is sponsoring Bishop Newell's coming to the area, includes the West Hurley, Glenford and Ashokan Methodist Churches. The next preacher which the Great Preaching Mission will bring to the area is Dr. Franz Hildebrandt, visiting professor in theology at Drew University.

Red Cross Got News for Parents

"Imagine how we felt with our son in a hospital so far away, and we could not find out how he was. But when we asked the Red Cross to assist, they got through right away and we were greatly relieved."

That is the way Mrs. Earl O. Terwilliger of Ulster Park referred to the Red Cross service which was rendered by the Ulster County Chapter a few weeks ago.

At the time Pfc. Robert Terwilliger was serving in the armed forces in Okinawa. He was ill in a hospital and his parents had received no word as to his condition.

"NATURALLY WE WERE concerned as to just how ill he was. We tried to get in touch with him but were only told he was in a hospital. When we could get no further information we sought the assistance of the Red Cross," said Mrs. Terwilliger.

"They got in touch with him right away and we learned he was not seriously ill," she concluded.

This is one of many similar instances where Red Cross has relieved the anxiety of parents of men in the service.

WHEN MRS. TERWILLIGER notified the Ulster County Chapter the Red Cross field representative half way around the world was contacted through military channels and within a few hours the report was made by telegraph and that information was given Mr. and Mrs. Terwilliger.

Three weeks ago Pfc. Terwilliger was discharged from service and returned home.

John W. Davis Dies in South; Opposed Coolidge

Charleston, S. C., March 25 (AP)—The body of John W. Davis, 81, veteran constitutional lawyer and Democratic presidential nominee in 1924, lay in state today.

Davis, who lost in his bid to unseat Calvin Coolidge from the presidency in 1924, died here yesterday. He had been hospitalized for several days suffering from pneumonia, the third attack he had suffered this winter.

A New Yorker, Davis became ill while at Yeaman's Hall, a nearby winter colony.

THE BODY LAY in state at a funeral home. It will be sent to Davis' Locust Valley, N. Y., home tonight. Funeral services are set for the Brick Presbyterian Church in New York, Monday, at 11 a. m. Burial will be in Locust Valley Cemetery on Long Island.

Davis was appointed ambassador to Great Britain in 1918 by President Woodrow Wilson. At the time of the appointment, Davis was at Bern, Switzerland, as a member of an American delegation to a conference with the Germans concerning the treatment and exchange of World War I prisoners.

DAVIS RESIGNED in 1921 and returned to the U. S. to resume his law practice.

Prior to receiving his ambassadorship, Davis had served two terms in Congress from his native West Virginia, and from 1913 to 1918 he was U. S. solicitor general, a post to which he was appointed by President Wilson.

In 1924 the Democrats nominated Davis as their presidential candidate. After a long battle between William Gibbs McAdoo and Alfred E. Smith, Davis was nominated on the 103rd ballot.

DAVIS ARGUED South Carolina's case before the Supreme Court in the school segregation case last year.

When President Harry S. Truman ordered steel mills seized in 1952 to prevent a strike, Davis was retained by the steel industry and successfully argued the case before the U. S. Supreme Court.

Davis was born at Clarksburg, W. Va., April 13, 1873. He was graduated from Washington and Lee University in 1892. He taught school for a while, then returned to Washington and Lee's Law School, from which he was graduated in 1895.

He married Julia MacDonald in 1899. They had one daughter, Julia, who now is Mrs. Charles P. Healy, of New York. Mrs. Davis died in 1900 and in 1912 Davis married Ellen G. Bassell, who died in 1943.

John W. Davis Dies in South; Opposed Coolidge

Charleston, S. C., March 25 (AP)—The body of John W. Davis, 81, veteran constitutional lawyer and Democratic presidential nominee in 1924, lay in state today.

Davis, who lost in his bid to unseat Calvin Coolidge from the presidency in 1924, died here yesterday. He had been hospitalized for several days suffering from pneumonia, the third attack he had suffered this winter.

A New Yorker, Davis became ill while at Yeaman's Hall, a nearby winter colony.

THE BODY LAY in state at a funeral home. It will be sent to Davis' Locust Valley, N. Y., home tonight. Funeral services are set for the Brick Presbyterian Church in New York, Monday, at 11 a. m. Burial will be in Locust Valley Cemetery on Long Island.

Davis was appointed ambassador to Great Britain in 1918 by President Woodrow Wilson. At the time of the appointment, Davis was at Bern, Switzerland, as a member of an American delegation to a conference with the Germans concerning the treatment and exchange of World War I prisoners.

DAVIS RESIGNED in 1921 and returned to the U. S. to resume his law practice.

Prior to receiving his ambassadorship, Davis had served two terms in Congress from his native West Virginia, and from 1913 to 1918 he was U. S. solicitor general, a post to which he was appointed by President Wilson.

In 1924 the Democrats nominated Davis as their presidential candidate. After a long battle between William Gibbs McAdoo and Alfred E. Smith, Davis was nominated on the 103rd ballot.

DAVIS ARGUED South Carolina's case before the Supreme Court in the school segregation case last year.

When President Harry S. Truman ordered steel mills seized in 1952 to prevent a strike, Davis was retained by the steel industry and successfully argued the case before the U. S. Supreme Court.

Davis was born at Clarksburg, W. Va., April 13, 1873. He was graduated from Washington and Lee University in 1892. He taught school for a while, then returned to Washington and Lee's Law School, from which he was graduated in 1895.

He married Julia MacDonald in 1899. They had one daughter, Julia, who now is Mrs. Charles P. Healy, of New York. Mrs. Davis died in 1900 and in 1912 Davis married Ellen G. Bassell, who died in 1943.

Kingston Jaycees Form Third Little League Baseball Group

Doyle Is Elected President; Will Play at Forsyth

Formation of the third Little League organization in Kingston was officially announced this morning with the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce giving its support to the setup.

Jack Doyle, newly-elected president of the Jaycee LL movement, in announcing plans this morning, said the new loop is designed to give more boys in the 8 to 12 age bracket a chance to play in organized baseball.

Doyle also pointed out that the new circuit has the full support of the present Kingston Little League Association, Bill Scully, president.

HOLDING THE REINS of the new Jaycee LL with President Doyle are Bill Paulus, vice-president; Ed Carter, treasurer and Bob Bates, secretary.

League directors include Thomas Malone, Pete Kowalenko, John Shults, Robert Scales and Seymour Werbalowsky.

The newly-organized Jaycee loop, according to present plans, will operate this year on the upper field in Forsyth Park.

Other LL games in the city are played at the New York State Armory and at Kingman Park.

The territorial franchise for the Jaycee league consists of Wards 1, 11, 12 and 13. However, players already assigned to the American and National LL's will continue to operate in those circuits, Doyle said.

Registration and tryout days for the new league will be announced soon.

Meanwhile, the Jaycee league officers and directors are making every endeavor to get the loop off to a fast start.

"Naturally, we need some help to get the season rolling," President Doyle said "and our biggest problem is umpires. Anyone who would like to volunteer his services as arbiters for the league, or to help in any other capacity, is asked to contact Bob Bates, 45 Wrentham street.

Wings, Canadiens Off to 2-0 Leads

(By The Associated Press)

The Detroit Red Wings and the Montreal Canadiens, who finished one-two in the National Hockey League's regular season race, held 2-0 commanding leads today in their best-of-seven semi-final playoff series.

The defending champion Wings, aiming for their seventh Stanley Cup title, edged the Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1 last night at Detroit. Meanwhile, the Canadiens again used their two-platoon goalie system to good advantage in downing the Boston Bruins 3-1 at Montreal.

The next two games in the Wings-Leafs series will be played at Toronto Saturday and Tuesday. The Canadiens-Bruins playoff shifts to Boston for games Sunday and Tuesday.

DETROIT STRUCK for two goals midway in the first period while the Leafs were two men short. Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio found the range within a span of 45 seconds while Toronto's Hugh Bolton and Eric Nesterenko were in the penalty box.

Foyd Curry, Calum (Baldy) MacKay and Jean Beliveau scored second period goals to give the Canadiens their victory as goalies Jacques Plante and Charlie Hodge alternated in the nets.

LaSalle Cage Coach Goes To Texas A M

New York, March 25 (AP) — Ken Loeffler, who in six years at LaSalle compiled an enviable 144-28 basketball coaching record, is heading for Texas A&M with hopes of lifting the Southwest Conference school to the heights he attained at the Philadelphia school.

Loeffler, here to coach the East team in tomorrow night's East-West game, made the surprise announcement last night a few minutes after he had talked with Athletic Director Bear Bryant of the Texas Aggies.

THE VETERAN coach said he would sign a three-year contract, probably when he visits the Aggie campus April 10. He declined to give the terms, but from another source it was learned he will receive in the neighborhood of $10,000 a year —the same salary he is believed to have received for combined jobs of coaching and teaching business law at LaSalle.

"I realize I am taking a gamble," said Loeffler, who guided LaSalle into six post season tournaments and won the National Invitation Tournament in 1952, the NCAA in 1954 and was runnerup to San Francisco in the NCAA this year.

"But the opportunities are tremendous," he added. "It looks like Bryant wants to develop basketball and I just couldn't turn down the challenge."

IN CONTRAST to La Salle's 26-5 record and No. 3 rank in the nation this year, the Aggies won only four games against 20 setbacks. They won only one conference game.

Loeffler's decision to make a change came as a complete surprise to LaSalle officials. Brother Erminus Stanislaus, president, said it was "news" to him when informed at Miami Beach. Athletic Director Jim Henry received the news from Loeffler some two hours after the coach had accepted Bryant's offer.

Loeffler's greatest achievement at LaSalle probably was the development of All-America Tom Gola, who graduates this spring.

The Western Division playoff is marking time. Fort Wayne leads Minneapolis 2-1. The fourth game is scheduled for Minneapolis Sunday.

Macauley pitched in with 21 points to help Sharman, with Cousy adding 13 and setting a record with 15 assists. Dolph Schayes hit 22 and Red Rocha 21 for Syracuse.

Kingston Jaycees Form Third Little League Baseball Group

Doyle Is Elected President; Will Play at Forsyth

Formation of the third Little League organization in Kingston was officially announced this morning with the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce giving its support to the setup.

Jack Doyle, newly-elected president of the Jaycee LL movement, in announcing plans this morning, said the new loop is designed to give more boys in the 8 to 12 age bracket a chance to play in organized baseball.

Doyle also pointed out that the new circuit has the full support of the present Kingston Little League Association, Bill Scully, president.

HOLDING THE REINS of the new Jaycee LL with President Doyle are Bill Paulus, vice-president; Ed Carter, treasurer and Bob Bates, secretary.

League directors include Thomas Malone, Pete Kowalenko, John Shults, Robert Scales and Seymour Werbalowsky.

The newly-organized Jaycee loop, according to present plans, will operate this year on the upper field in Forsyth Park.

Other LL games in the city are played at the New York State Armory and at Kingman Park.

The territorial franchise for the Jaycee league consists of Wards 1, 11, 12 and 13. However, players already assigned to the American and National LL's will continue to operate in those circuits, Doyle said.

Registration and tryout days for the new league will be announced soon.

Meanwhile, the Jaycee league officers and directors are making every endeavor to get the loop off to a fast start.

"Naturally, we need some help to get the season rolling," President Doyle said "and our biggest problem is umpires. Anyone who would like to volunteer his services as arbiters for the league, or to help in any other capacity, is asked to contact Bob Bates, 45 Wrentham street.

(By The Associated Press)

The Detroit Red Wings and the Montreal Canadiens, who finished one-two in the National Hockey League's regular season race, held 2-0 commanding leads today in their best-of-seven semi-final playoff series.

The defending champion Wings, aiming for their seventh Stanley Cup title, edged the Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1 last night at Detroit. Meanwhile, the Canadiens again used their two-platoon goalie system to good advantage in downing the Boston Bruins 3-1 at Montreal.

The next two games in the Wings-Leafs series will be played at Toronto Saturday and Tuesday. The Canadiens-Bruins playoff shifts to Boston for games Sunday and Tuesday.

DETROIT STRUCK for two goals midway in the first period while the Leafs were two men short. Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio found the range within a span of 45 seconds while Toronto's Hugh Bolton and Eric Nesterenko were in the penalty box.

Foyd Curry, Calum (Baldy) MacKay and Jean Beliveau scored second period goals to give the Canadiens their victory as goalies Jacques Plante and Charlie Hodge alternated in the nets.

Otisville Trips Dover Plains by 81 to 58 Score

The fast-breaking Harry's Angels, their lineup studded by former Kingston High School stars, ran roughshod over the Hudson Knights of Columbus by 103 to 56 in an opening round game of the Kingston Basketball Tournament Thursday night at municipal auditorium.

With seven of the Angels hitting double figures, the YMCA champions of the current court campaign, piled up a tremendous lead as the game progressed and topped it off with a 36-point splurge in the final quarter to break the game wide open.

Johnny Godwin, former KHS luminiary who is now a student at New Paltz State Teachers College, led the assault for the Angels with 20 points on six fields and eight foul conversions.

In last night's other tournament clash, Otisville turned back Dover Plains, 81 to 58.

THE ANGELS, who are playing their second game of the Hudson Valley Tournament in Poughkeepsie tonight against St. Joachim's of Beacon in the quarter-finals, will meet the winner of the March 31 local game between Empire Diner and Lincoln Center. That clash is scheduled for April 2.

Ray Lawrence, another Maroon star during the past season, followed Godwin in the scoring ledger with 18 points. Big Bill Kleine hit for 14, Ward Dunham 13, Champ Holstein 12 and Skip Brodhead 10. Randy Seigel, the importation from NPSTC tied Brodhead with 10. Bud Scheffel added six.

The Angels led by 20-12 at the first quarter and upped their lead to 41-23 at the halftime buzzer. The YMCA champions continued to pull away, leading 67-34 at the third quarter and then salted the game with their 36-point final total.

E. Sullivan and P. Tanzillo were the top scorers for Hudson with 17 and 15 points respectively.

Bob Scott, Dover Plains' high-scoring ace, emerged as the No. 1 scorer of the tournament play with 22 markers in a losing cause. Bob Walker had 21 for Otisville.

TOURNAMENT PLAY resumes next Tuesday night, March 29, with the Poughkeepsie Trabassos meeting Sickler's Delivery at 7:30 o'clock and the Pine Plains Bombardiers, defending champions, tangling with the Reddy Kilowatts of Newburgh in the 8:30 o'clock attraction.

On Thursday, March 31, Empire Diner of Kingston, 93-56 winners over Cairo in the first night of play, meets Lincoln Center of Poughkeepsie and Cornwall will oppose the Ketterson Pistons.

Compromise Video Plan Is Okayed

Kansas City, March 25 (AP)—Television viewers will receive their college football games next fall on both a regional and national basis.

Member schools of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. voted 193 to 27 for a compromise plan which provides for intra-district telecasts.

There were no provisions last year for the regional, or district, telecasts. The games—13 in all—were telecast nationally with a team being limited to one TV appearance during the season.

Here's the new setup:

Eight national games-of-the-week during a 13-week period.

FIVE SATURDAYS during the same period devoted to intra-district telecasting of games.

A team may participate in one national and one intra-district telecast, or in two intra-district dates if the national appearance is relinquished.

Under the NCAA the country is divided into eight geographical districts and these districts are expected to prevail for television.

Youngsters Lead in Miami Golf

Miami Beach, Fla., March 25 (AP)—The youngsters of the golf trail, paced by Australia's 25-year-old Peter Thomson, were in full command today as the $12,500 Miami Beach Open tournament moved into the second 18-hole round.

Despite gusty winds and light rain, Thomson posted a seven-under-par 65 over the Bayshore Golf Club course yesterday but hot on his trail with 66s were three other youthful campaigners—24-year-old Gene Littler of Palm Springs, Calif., Bob Inman, 25, of Tulsa, Akla., and Bob Rosburg, 28, of San Francisco.

It was necessary to go down to an eighth place tie to find any of the tournament veterans: John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., Shelly Mayfield of Chicopee, Mass., and Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill.

The day's best nine-hole score of 31 was posted by 24-year-old Buddy Weaver of Houston, Tex., who joined the tour this winter at San Diego. Weaver's total of 67 gave him a tie for fifth with Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Te., and W. A. Pagan Jr. of West Palm Beach.

Stan Hack, manager of the Chicago Cubs, played third base on four pennant-winning Cub teams—1932, 1935, 1938 and 1945.

Estimate Is Made Of O&W Property

New York, March 25 (AP)—A witness for the bankrupt New York, Ontario and Western Railroad Company today estimated its 541 miles of right-of-way to be worth only $353,345.

The witness, William Fancher, of Walton, the railway's tax agent, said the road's land between populated areas has no value whatever.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has appraised the value of the railway's land at $2,600,000.

The ICC is conducting a hearing on a plan to sell the railway for $4,600,000. The ICC values the railway at $57,400,000 as of Jan. 1 last.

Worst Spring

to -26 at Helena and -15 at Great Falls early today. Both are all-time lows for the date.

Overcast skies produced more moderate temperatures in the two more southerly states. It was -4 at Casper and -2 at Douglas in Wyoming, and 5 above at Akron and 9 above at Denver in Colorado.

Snow depth was spotty. The top mark was 9 inches at Cody, Wyo. By midnight 6 inches were on the ground at Denver, where the storm struck in early evening, snarling traffic and causing scores of minor accidents. Montana received from 2 to 8 inches of white stuff.

Ironically, only traces of moisture fell on the drouth-parched plains of eastern Colorado.

Despite high winds and steady snowfall, airlines generally held to their schedules.

The weatherman issued livestock warnings for both Colorado and Wyoming. Snowfall was expected to diminish in those states today but temperatures were due to remain frigid. Snow was packing rapidly on the high mountain passes, but all roads remained open.

Snow from 1 to 3 inches fell over western sections of Nebraska and Kansas and there were lighter falls in northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin.

There also was light snow in sections of the northeast, with about one inch in parts of New York. Only other wet spots were in the lower Ohio valley, which reported thunderstorms, and along the northern Pacific coast where light rain continued.

KHS Students Inspect Center

Their spirits undimmed by a driving rain and with few alterations in the program, 100 Kingston High School students, majoring in distributive education and social studies, spent Monday on a field trip to Cross Country Center, Yonkers, the largest regional shopping center in the world. The students were conveyed in two buses and were accompanied by Loryne Connick, head of the school's business department, and Mrs. Mildred G. DeWitt, teacher of social studies.

After being greeted formally by Sol G. Atlas, owner-builder of the $30,000,000 shopping mecca, the group were assembled for a seminar on retailing, merchandising, community relations and shopping center planning. Each student was supplied with an ample portfolio especially assembled for the occasion. They were addressed on the various aspects of the center's operation as well as its problems in planning and construction as well as maintenance by Atlas; Messrs. Roger S. Smith, J. Alan Ornstein and Raymond J. Keyes, members of the Center's Management Committee, and William Utall, of the center's merchants' association, and Daniel S. Fruchter, administrator of the center's hospital and medical center.

Following the seminar the students were taken on a complete tour of the center by Ralph Alexander, superintendent of maintenance. They observed self-service operation at Walgreen's, First National Stores and the F. W. Woolworth branch. All of these stores are the most modern of their respective chains. They witnessed the operation of First National's conveyor belt package delivery system, the first installation of its kind in the East. They also were taken through the freight delivery tunnel, an innovation that makes it possible for all trucks to be excluded from the shoppers' parking areas. They had the privilege too, of being the first group shown through the building to be opened by John Wanamaker April 27.

and hospitals. We need to continue heavy expenditures for defense.

"For my part, I am fearful we have curtailed these expenditures too much—and at a time when we have idle resources that would enable us to do whatever is necessary for our security."

Renewing his plea for an increase in the federal minimum wage for interstate commerce from 75 cents to $1.25 an hour, Harriman said that last January he recommended that the New York Legislature "take a strong stand" in favor of urging Congress to vote the increase.

"I HAVE BEEN greatly disappointed that the Legislature has not seen fit to do so," he told the convention delegates.

Harriman also told the convention that he hopes to see "some important bills relating to unemployment insurance" passed at the current legislative session.

Things in this category which Harriman urged were: An increase in the maximum benefits from $30 to $36 a week, a cut from 20 to 15 weeks in the employment period required to qualify for benefits, immediate extension of protection to employes of all employers, even those who employ only one worker; and provision of additional benefits for unemployed persons with dependents.

New York, March 25 (AP)—A witness for the bankrupt New York, Ontario and Western Railroad Company today estimated its 541 miles of right-of-way to be worth only $353,345.

The witness, William Fancher, of Walton, the railway's tax agent, said the road's land between populated areas has no value whatever.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has appraised the value of the railway's land at $2,600,000.

The ICC is conducting a hearing on a plan to sell the railway for $4,600,000. The ICC values the railway at $57,400,000 as of Jan. 1 last.

Worst Spring

to -26 at Helena and -15 at Great Falls early today. Both are all-time lows for the date.

Overcast skies produced more moderate temperatures in the two more southerly states. It was -4 at Casper and -2 at Douglas in Wyoming, and 5 above at Akron and 9 above at Denver in Colorado.

Snow depth was spotty. The top mark was 9 inches at Cody, Wyo. By midnight 6 inches were on the ground at Denver, where the storm struck in early evening, snarling traffic and causing scores of minor accidents. Montana received from 2 to 8 inches of white stuff.

Ironically, only traces of moisture fell on the drouth-parched plains of eastern Colorado.

Despite high winds and steady snowfall, airlines generally held to their schedules.

The weatherman issued livestock warnings for both Colorado and Wyoming. Snowfall was expected to diminish in those states today but temperatures were due to remain frigid. Snow was packing rapidly on the high mountain passes, but all roads remained open.

Snow from 1 to 3 inches fell over western sections of Nebraska and Kansas and there were lighter falls in northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin.

There also was light snow in sections of the northeast, with about one inch in parts of New York. Only other wet spots were in the lower Ohio valley, which reported thunderstorms, and along the northern Pacific coast where light rain continued.

KHS Students Inspect Center

Their spirits undimmed by a driving rain and with few alterations in the program, 100 Kingston High School students, majoring in distributive education and social studies, spent Monday on a field trip to Cross Country Center, Yonkers, the largest regional shopping center in the world. The students were conveyed in two buses and were accompanied by Loryne Connick, head of the school's business department, and Mrs. Mildred G. DeWitt, teacher of social studies.

After being greeted formally by Sol G. Atlas, owner-builder of the $30,000,000 shopping mecca, the group were assembled for a seminar on retailing, merchandising, community relations and shopping center planning. Each student was supplied with an ample portfolio especially assembled for the occasion. They were addressed on the various aspects of the center's operation as well as its problems in planning and construction as well as maintenance by Atlas; Messrs. Roger S. Smith, J. Alan Ornstein and Raymond J. Keyes, members of the Center's Management Committee, and William Utall, of the center's merchants' association, and Daniel S. Fruchter, administrator of the center's hospital and medical center.

Following the seminar the students were taken on a complete tour of the center by Ralph Alexander, superintendent of maintenance. They observed self-service operation at Walgreen's, First National Stores and the F. W. Woolworth branch. All of these stores are the most modern of their respective chains. They witnessed the operation of First National's conveyor belt package delivery system, the first installation of its kind in the East. They also were taken through the freight delivery tunnel, an innovation that makes it possible for all trucks to be excluded from the shoppers' parking areas. They had the privilege too, of being the first group shown through the building to be opened by John Wanamaker April 27.

and hospitals. We need to continue heavy expenditures for defense.

"For my part, I am fearful we have curtailed these expenditures too much—and at a time when we have idle resources that would enable us to do whatever is necessary for our security."

Renewing his plea for an increase in the federal minimum wage for interstate commerce from 75 cents to $1.25 an hour, Harriman said that last January he recommended that the New York Legislature "take a strong stand" in favor of urging Congress to vote the increase.

"I HAVE BEEN greatly disappointed that the Legislature has not seen fit to do so," he told the convention delegates.

Harriman also told the convention that he hopes to see "some important bills relating to unemployment insurance" passed at the current legislative session.

Things in this category which Harriman urged were: An increase in the maximum benefits from $30 to $36 a week, a cut from 20 to 15 weeks in the employment period required to qualify for benefits, immediate extension of protection to employes of all employers, even those who employ only one worker; and provision of additional benefits for unemployed persons with dependents.

Garvin Pays His First Visit to Navy Recruiter

Commander Alfred D. Garvin, U. S. Navy, officer-in-charge of the U. S. Navy Recruiting Station and Office of Naval Officer Procurement, 346 Broadway, New York, made his first official inspection of the newly-established Navy Recruiting Branch Station at Kingston.

The Kingston Recruiting Station is located in room 209, Central Post Office. The petty officer-in-charge is Ralph A. Keeler, quartermaster first class, U. S. Navy, of New Paltz.

Cmdr. Garvin said that the establishment of the Kingston Navy Recruiting Station was part of a nationwide program of expansion of the navy recruiting service. The navy recognizes the increasing importance of many communities that are growing rapidly as a result of the decentralization of population and industry away from the older metropolitan centers, he said. People are our business, he said. We must go where they are.

Cmdr. Garvin is also serving as Inspector of Navy Recruiting and Naval Officer Procurement for the First Recruiting Area which includes the states of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Before coming to this duty he was commanding officer of the U.S.S. Vammen (DE 644) in the Pacific Fleet. His decorations include the Legion of Merit with Combat "V," two Bronze Star Medals with Combat "V's," and two Korean Presidential Unit Citations. Quartermaster Keeler is a veteran of World War 2 and the Korean War.

Commenting on the role of a navy recruiting station in the community, Cmdr. Garvin said, "The recruiter is a member of the community who happens to be in the navy—not a member of the navy who happened to be in the community."

Jury Can't Agree

The jury which heard the testimony in the action brought by Martin Warner, as guardian, against Thomas W. Lindsell, an action to recover for personal injuries to an infant child of plaintiff who was struck by the defendant's car near the New York city aerator, was unable to agree and Justice MacAffer discharged the jurors from further consideration in the case. Henry Temes appeared for plaintiff and Cashin and Ewig for defendant.

State Approves Water District

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt today approved application of the Town of Ulster, Ulster county, for permission to establish the Ulster water district. The maximum authorized expenditure for the proposed improvement is $680,000.

A new plant of the International Business Machine Corp., three new housing developments and 800 existing homes will be served by a system of wells near the Esopus creek in the new district.

Death Penalty

Charlotte, N. C. (AP)—Judge W. A. Leland McKeithen adjourned court and ordered an investigation of cackles coming from air vent. A hen had escaped from a coop of chickens in the county jail kitchens atop the courthouse. When court resumed the judge called for a report. "The death penalty, your honor," replied Jailer A. J. Brewer, "the hen will be served to the prisoners Sunday."

Garvin Pays His First Visit to Navy Recruiter

Commander Alfred D. Garvin, U. S. Navy, officer-in-charge of the U. S. Navy Recruiting Station and Office of Naval Officer Procurement, 346 Broadway, New York, made his first official inspection of the newly-established Navy Recruiting Branch Station at Kingston.

The Kingston Recruiting Station is located in room 209, Central Post Office. The petty officer-in-charge is Ralph A. Keeler, quartermaster first class, U. S. Navy, of New Paltz.

Cmdr. Garvin said that the establishment of the Kingston Navy Recruiting Station was part of a nationwide program of expansion of the navy recruiting service. The navy recognizes the increasing importance of many communities that are growing rapidly as a result of the decentralization of population and industry away from the older metropolitan centers, he said. People are our business, he said. We must go where they are.

Cmdr. Garvin is also serving as Inspector of Navy Recruiting and Naval Officer Procurement for the First Recruiting Area which includes the states of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Before coming to this duty he was commanding officer of the U.S.S. Vammen (DE 644) in the Pacific Fleet. His decorations include the Legion of Merit with Combat "V," two Bronze Star Medals with Combat "V's," and two Korean Presidential Unit Citations. Quartermaster Keeler is a veteran of World War 2 and the Korean War.

Commenting on the role of a navy recruiting station in the community, Cmdr. Garvin said, "The recruiter is a member of the community who happens to be in the navy—not a member of the navy who happened to be in the community."

Jury Can't Agree

The jury which heard the testimony in the action brought by Martin Warner, as guardian, against Thomas W. Lindsell, an action to recover for personal injuries to an infant child of plaintiff who was struck by the defendant's car near the New York city aerator, was unable to agree and Justice MacAffer discharged the jurors from further consideration in the case. Henry Temes appeared for plaintiff and Cashin and Ewig for defendant.

State Approves Water District

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt today approved application of the Town of Ulster, Ulster county, for permission to establish the Ulster water district. The maximum authorized expenditure for the proposed improvement is $680,000.

A new plant of the International Business Machine Corp., three new housing developments and 800 existing homes will be served by a system of wells near the Esopus creek in the new district.

Death Penalty

Charlotte, N. C. (AP)—Judge W. A. Leland McKeithen adjourned court and ordered an investigation of cackles coming from air vent. A hen had escaped from a coop of chickens in the county jail kitchens atop the courthouse. When court resumed the judge called for a report. "The death penalty, your honor," replied Jailer A. J. Brewer, "the hen will be served to the prisoners Sunday."
